CENSUS OF INDIA, 1891.

VOLUME XXVI.

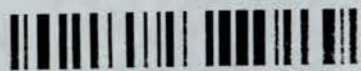

RAJPUTANA.

PART I.

THE REPORT, IMPERIAL TABLES AND SUPPLEMENTARY RETURNS.

CHAPTER I.

General Description.

1. The province of Rajputana, from the census point of view, contains within its limits the 15 Rajput States of Meywar, Partabgarh, Banswara, Dungarpur, Sirohi, Marwar, Jesalmir, Bikanir, Jeypore, Kishengarh, Alwar, Karauli, Bundi, Kotah and Jhallawar, the 2 Jat States of Bhartpur and Dholpur, about a half of the Mahomedan State of Tonk (the other portion of this State being situated in Central India), the Rajput Chiefship of Shahpura, the Rajput Thakurate or Estate of Lawa, and small outlying portions of the Gwalior and Indore States situated in and forming, for census purposes, a part of Meywar. The above 20 territorial divisions constitute the units for the Imperial Tables of the census. Map No. I shows the States of Rajputana as partitioned among the ruling races.

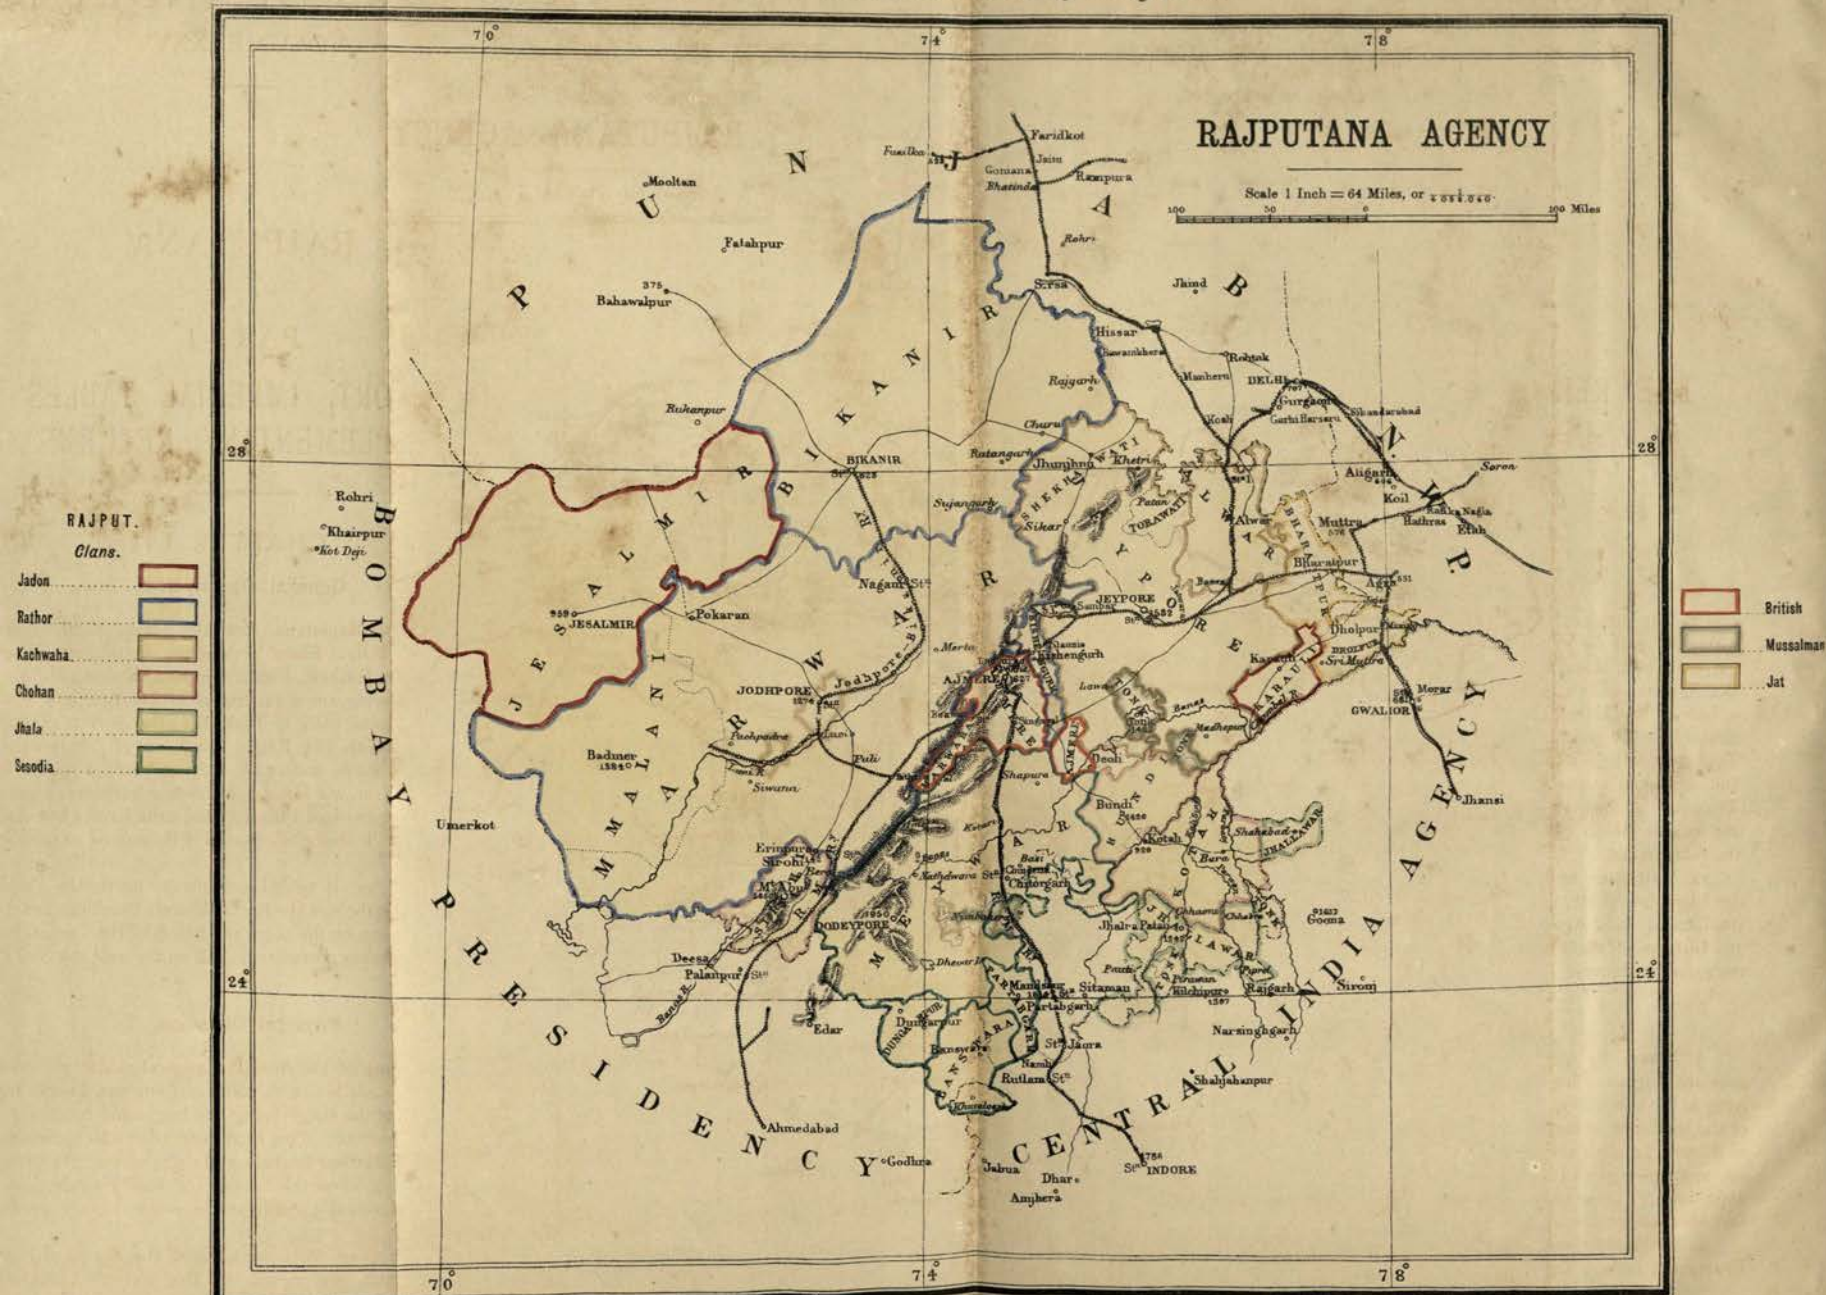

2. Rajputana has for its neighbours, on the north, the Punjab including the Bhawalpur State, on the east the North-Western Provinces and the States of the Central India Agency, on the south the States of the Central India Agency and Guzerat of the Bombay Presidency, and on the west the Sind Province of the same Presidency.

Physical Divisions.

3. Nature, by means of the Aravalli Range of mountains, has divided the province diagonally from south-west to north-east into two distinct regions, that lying to the north-west of the range being the larger and containing three-fifths of the total area of Rajputana. This north-west tract which contains the States of Bikanir, Jesalmir and Marwar (including Malani) is, with the exception of the sub-montane regions lying below the Aravallis, generally sandy, ill-watered and unproductive, these unfavourable conditions becoming more pronounced the further west one proceeds.

4. Within the south-east tract are situated the States of Jeypore, Alwar, Bhartpur, Dholpur, Karauli, Kishengarh, the Thakurate of Lawa, the Chiefship of Shahpura, a portion of the Tonk State and the States of Bundi, Kota, Jhallawar, Banswara, Dungarpur, Partabgarh, Meywar and Sirohi. This Division of Rajputana is blessed with a good rainfall, a fertile soil, and (in parts) extensive forest tracts where fodder and fuel are plentiful; its southern portion, embracing the States of Banswara, Dungarpur, Partabgarh, Meywar, Sirohi, is, for the most part, a more or less close net-work of hills covered with forest and enclosing fertile and well-watered valleys and table-lands. This corner of Rajputana is the chief home of the Bhils in this part of India.

Census Divisions.

5. In accordance with the above noted physical aspects of the country, the Rajputana population at this census will be grouped in this review into three main divisions—the Western, Eastern and Southern.

Political Charges.

6. For the purposes of political supervision, Rajputana is, at the present time, divided into 9 political charges subordinate to the Agent to the Governor-General, who has his headquarters at Mount Abu. The following are the political charges:—

- I. The Western Rajputana States Residency, consisting of the States of Sirohi, Marwar, and Jesalmir, with headquarters at Jodhpore;
- II. The Bikanir Agency with headquarters at Bikanir;
- III. The Jeypore Residency, consisting of the Jeypore and Kishangarh States and the Thakurate of Lawa, with headquarters at Jeypore;
- IV. The Alwar Agency, with headquarters at Alwar;
- V. The Eastern States Agency, containing the States of Bhartpur, Dholpur, and Karauli, with headquarters at Dholpur;
- VI. The Harowti and Tonk Agency, with headquarters at Deoli, containing the Tonk and Bundi States and the Shahpura Chiefship;
- VII. The Kotah Agency, with headquarters at Kotah;
- VIII. The Jhalawar Agency, with headquarters at Jhalrapatan; and
- IX. The Meywar Residency, with headquarters at Oodeypore, supervising the States of Meywar, Partabgarh, Banswara and Dungarpur.

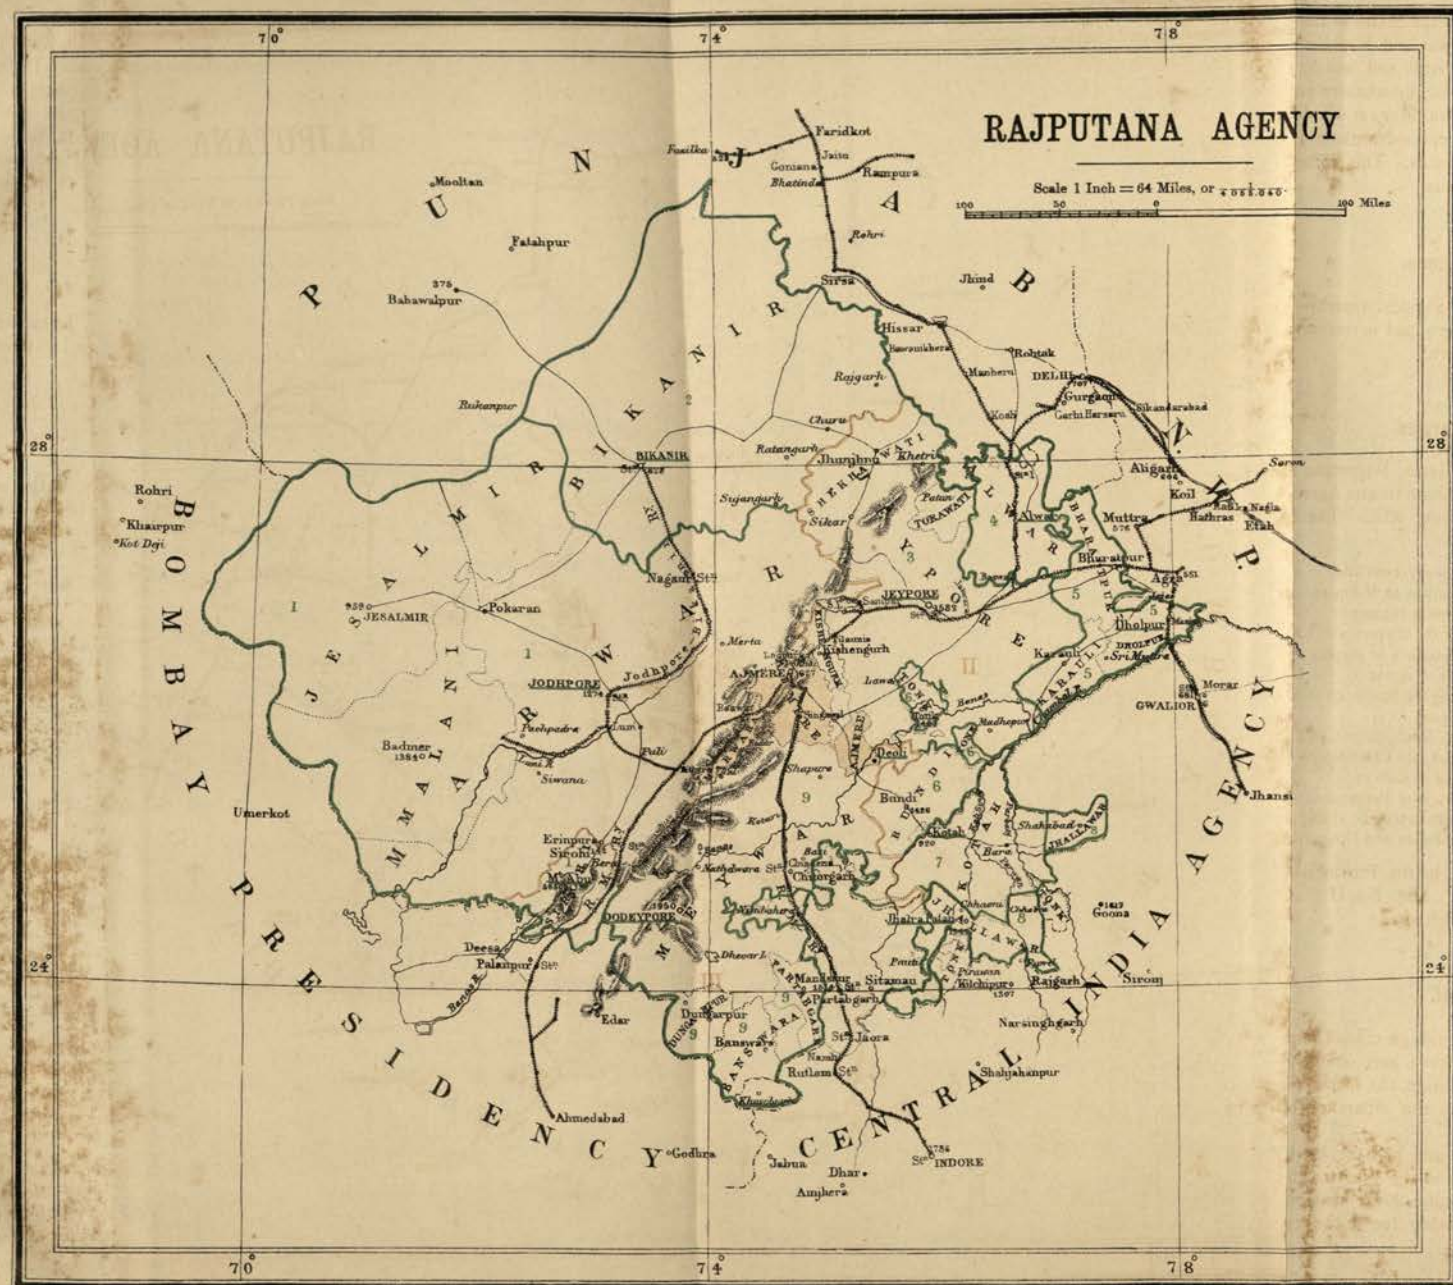

For local use, the figures embodied in the Provincial Tables have been grouped under the above 9 major heads. Map No. II shows the limits of the 3 main census divisions and the 9 political charges.

Rainfall.

7. In Statement No. I is shown the average rainfall recorded at all stations in Rajputana where regular observations have been made for some years, the average for each separate Division and State, the former averages recorded at stations which kept records previously, and the difference between former and present averages at those places.

The comparison between the former and present averages would make it appear that rainfall has increased in parts of the Western and Eastern Divisions, while in the Southern Division it has become both heavier and lighter during the past 10 years; these changes are probably due to the less accurate registration of the rainfall prior to the past decade.

Area.—Table I.

8. Rajputana, which is less than a tenth of the area of the Indian Empire, compares in this respect closely with some other countries as follows :—

United Kingdom	121,481 square miles.
Hungary	125,039 „
Rajputana	127,626 „
Prussia	136,075 „

The areas of the three main census divisions are—

Western	74,251 square miles.
Eastern	34,236 „
Southern	19,139 „

From the statistics available, the country which most nearly approaches the area of the Western Division is Victoria, in Australia, with an area of 87,884 square miles. The Eastern Division has an area exceeding that of the following countries :—

Scotland	30,417
Ireland	32,583
Portugal	34,038

While the area of the Southern Division is almost the same as that of Serbia, 19,050 square miles.

9. The following (Abstract No. 2) are the Rajputana States and the census units arranged in order of size :—

Abstract No. 2.

Serial No.	TERRITORIAL UNIT.	Area in square miles.	REMARKS.
1	Marwar with Malani	34,963	Bulgaria . . . 37,860. Switzerland . . 15,892. Holland . . . 12,648.
2	Bikanir	23,173
3	Jesalmir	16,062
4	Jeypore	15,579
5	Meywar	12,753
6	Kotah	3,784
7	Alwar	3,144
8	Jhalawar	2,722
9	Bundi	2,220
10	Bharatpur	1,982
11	Sirohi	1,964
12	Banswara with Kushalgarh	1,946
13	Dungarpur	1,447
14	Karauli	1,242
15	Dholpur	1,154
16	Tonk in Rajputana	1,113
17	Partabgarh	886
18	Kishengarh	858
19	Shahpura	405
20	Lawa	19

NOTE.—With the area of its Central India Districts (1,439 square miles) added Tonk would stand ninth on the list with a total area of 2,552.

It will be observed that the Marwar State, which is about equal to Bulgaria in size, has a larger area than the whole of the Eastern Division of Rajputana. The two other more important States, Jeypore and Meywar, compare as to area with Switzerland and Holland.

After the first five States on the list there is a great difference in the territorial areas,

Population.—Table I.

10. The total population of Rajputana amounts to 12,220,343 and represents rather over 4 per cent. of the total population of the Indian Empire, and about 18 per cent. of that of the Native States within that Empire ; contrasted with foreign countries, it stands between Brazil, with 9,930,478, and Hungary, with 15,642,102.

These numbers have been arrived at in the following manner :—

(a)	Persons enumerated on the schedule prescribed for Rajputana	11,955,670
(b)	Scattered portions of Central India States situated in Meywar enumerated by the Central India authorities	18,118
(c)	Rajputana-Malwa and Indian Midland Railway population, Europeans and Eurasians and Military lines population in cantonments enumerated on British India schedules	16,716
(d)	Unenumerated Bhils and Grassias	229,839

The European and Eurasian totals are :—

Europeans	765
Eurasians	444

Of the three main census divisions the Eastern is by far the most populous, its numbers, 6,233,841, exceeding the Irish population of 1881, viz., 5,174,836. The population of the other two divisions are—

Western	.	.	.	.	3,467,524	(Saxony,	3,182,003)
Southern	.	.	.	.	2,518,978	(Switzerland,	2,933,334)

11. Arranged by population the several States and units fall in the order given below (Abstract No. 3).

Abstract No. 3.

Serial No.	STATE OR UNIT.	Population.	REMARKS.
1	Jeypore	2,832,276	Switzerland 2,933,334
2	Marwar with Malani	2,519,868	Chili 2,527,320
3	Meywar	1,863,126	Norway 1,806,900
4	Bikanir	831,955	Victoria 862,346
5	Alwar	767,786
6	Bharatpur	640,303	Jamaica 585,582
7	Kotah	526,267	New Zealand 578,482
8	Jhalawar	343,601	Queensland 322,853
10	Dholpur	279,890
11	Banswara	211,641
12	Tonk in Rajputana	198,934	The Central India portion of Tonk has a population of 181,135, if it were taken into account Tonk would stand between Kotah and Jhalawar with a total population of 379,944.
13	Sirohi	190,836
14	Dungarpur	165,400
15	Karauli	156,587
16	Kishengarh	125,516
18	Partabgarh	87,975

NOTE.—The above is the total population and includes (a) (b) (c) and (d) of para. 10.

As was to be expected, the three important States of Jeypore, Marwar, and Meywar head the list and distance the other States, the population of the two former States are nearly equal, but Jeypore has slightly the larger number, though less than half the size of Marwar; these two States fairly represent the effects of position on the eastern and western sides of the Aravallis.

Density.—Table I.

12. The mean square mile density for Rajputana is 95·8, which compared with 1881 (80) is an increase of 15·8 per square mile; without the desert tract of Jesalmir the mean density would be 108·5. The Rajputana density compares with the densities of the neighbouring Provinces as below:—

North-Western Provinces	413
Punjab	169
Bombay Presidency	150·78
Native States in the Bombay Presidency collectively	116·72
Native States in the Punjab collectively	111
Central India	Not available.

13. The territorial units arranged in order of density appear as follows :—

	RAJPUTANA	127,626§	12,220,343	95·8	§ Inclusive of 210 square miles in dispute.

15. It will be seen that the Census Divisions stand in the following order of greatest density :—

Eastern Division	182·1
Southern Division	131·6
Western Division	46·7

Taking the Rajputana mean of 95·8 as a guide for the Province, the units may be classed in the following sections which are shown in Map No. IV :—

Map No. 4.—Square Mile Density.

Sparsely.

Jesalmir 7'2

16. The density varies greatly within the area of some States as is seen in the cases of the States below which alone have furnished such statistics. In Marwar the density varies from 121'38 in the Marote (north-east) pergannah to 12'15 in the pergannah of Sheo (south-west). In Jeypore the density varies from 303'23 in the Jeypore nizamat to 120'18 in the western nizamat of Sambhar. The Alwar density varies from 417'19 in the eastern pergannah of Govindgarh to 190'10 in the south-west pergannah of Thana Ghazi.

In Tonk in Rajputana the variations are not great, but in Jhalawar they range from 302 at the Headquarters Pergannah to 41'62 in the Jungle District of Shahabad to the north-east. Details will be found in the remarks on the provincial tables.

17. The square mile density of the several units, compared with the figures for the Census of 1881, are noted below in Abstract No. 6, which gives the areas and 1881 and 1891 population for each unit, the causes of difference will be noticed further on under the head of movement of the population.

18. The square mile densities for 1881 given in the above Abstract No. 6 do not agree with those shown in the 1881 Census Report, because the areas have since been corrected, and in the case of Tonk there is the further difference that in the 1881 Report the density refers to the whole State; while the density here shown deals only with that portion of the State which lies within the boundaries of Rajputana.

Number of persons per house.—Table I.

19. The number of persons found living in a house as defined for census purposes, i. e., the dwelling place of one or more families having a separate independent entrance from the public way, is shown in the next Abstract No. 7 arranged in order of magnitude and compared with 1881.

NOTE.—The Kushalgarh Bhils and Sirohi Grassias are included, but not the unenumerated Bhils of Meywar and Dungarpur.

20. The numerous and great variations in the number of inmates as contrasted with 1881 is to be accounted for by there having been no precise definition of a house in 1881 when seemingly the family was identified with the house, this has been more particularly the case with the units within the Jeypore Residency, viz., Jeypore, Kishengarh, and Lawa, and in Bikanir and Bundi and is the probable cause of the increase shown in 11 out of the 20 units. There is a decrease in 7 units, more particularly in Karauli and Alwar. In the case of Alwar, this has been caused by a different method of treating separate houses within an enclosure, in 1881 such houses were all reckoned as one, but in 1891 each has had a separate number, and this is likely to be the reason in the other cases where the number of houses has increased. In Bharatpur and Meywar, the numbers remain practically the same as in 1881. In Jeypore City the number per house is 6'62, and throughout the State it varies from 5'89, in the Sewai Madhopur District in the South-East to 8'43 and 8'87 in the northern districts of Torawatti and Shekhawatti.

For Villages 6'27

and it is remarked that in the towns the females outnumber the males, the opposite being the case in villages, the figures being for each house—

		Males.	Females.
Towns		2'66	2'71
Villages		3'35	2'92

It is added that this is due to the fact that the towns are mostly inhabited by the trading classes, whose adult males are absent on business beyond the limits of the State.

In Jhalawar, its Malwa District of the Chowmehla has a house population of 6'19, which becomes 5'55 in the Central Districts of the State and diminishes to 4'74 in its poor north-eastern district of Shahabad.

Other States have not furnished such details. The house population for the main divisions of Rajputana is—

		Towns.	Villages.
Western	 5'23	4'68	5'31
Eastern	 6'20	5'76	6'29
Southern	 4'54	4'12	4'58

In Rajputana, as a whole, the town house contains 5'20 persons and the village house, 5'57.

Average number of people inhabiting a village.—Tables I, III and IV.

21. Only the States of Meywar, Sirohi, Alwar, Bikanir, and Jhalawar have excluded their town population in calculating the number of inhabitants per village, so, except in the above instances, the figures given in the Abstract below (No. 8) (which deals with the rural population alone) will not agree with those found in the Agency Reports :—

22. Villages in the three Divisions of Rajputana fall in the following order:—

Western	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	468
Southern	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	245

In the Western District where are situated the estates and country seats of numerous Thakurs, Rahtores and others, and where a scanty supply of water and the requirements of a former time for organizing forays and guarding against cattle and other raids, necessitated a collection in numbers, the largest villages are to be found; the villages of the Eastern District situated in fertile tracts occupy a middle place; while in the mountainous, little cultivated, and backward Southern Division, the villages are by far the smallest except in Sirohi, where the presence of several Thakurs with their retainers and the not very remote necessity for combination for defence has produced conditions resembling those observed in the Western Division and has raised the size of its villages to the third place for Rajputana.

Areality.—Tables I, III and IV.

23. The average space within which is to be found a town and a village, in the different divisions of Rajputana, and in the several units (in the order of proximity), as well as in Rajputana as a whole, is given in Table No. 9.

NOTE.—In these calculations the unenumerated are included.

25. The above Abstract No. II, which exhibits the Territorial Units in the order of magnitude of the Rural Population, shows that 12·5 per cent. of the Total Population of Rajputana is Urban, and 87·5 Rural.

26. Of the main Divisions, the Eastern contains the highest proportion (15·3) of town population and is followed by the Western with a percentage of 11·5, while the Southern Division can only show a percentage of 7 of town population.

27. Among the Territorial Units Jeypore stands first as regards the number of its towns (37) and the size of its chief town, the capital, which has a population of 158,905. The highest proportion of town population in Jeypore is in the Shekhawatti District, where there are the important Estates of Sikar and Khetri and several towns which are the homes of rich bankers and merchants who carry on a lucrative business all over India. The Jeypore town population is added to by the presence of 6,503 Railway employés within its limits.

Marwar has 26 towns, the homes of Sirdars and mercantile classes and sources of salt supply. The Railway adds 1,771 to this population.

In Bikanir there are 9 towns which are for the most part of the same character as those in Shekhawatti already referred to.

After Meywar, which has 14 towns, no other State has more than 8 towns and 7 States, namely, Banswara, Dungarpur, Partabgarh, Sirohi, Jesalmir, Karauli, and Shahpura, have only 1 each the capital of its ruler. The Railway has increased the town population of Sirohi by 2,410. The capital of Tonk with its 45,947 inhabitants raises the proportion of the urban population of that State to the highest on the list owing to the Central India portion of this State being left out of the calculation.

Movement of the Population.—Tables II and IV.

28. Abstract No. 12 shows the variations in the population on the enumeration of 1881 and the ratio of variation per 1,000 in both sexes, males and females respectively—

NOTE.—The Meywar population for 1891 includes the inhabitants of detached areas of Gwalior and Indore situate in Meywar 18,118 in number who were left out of account in 1881.

29. In the case of both sexes there has been an increase in all the units but one, amounting to 2,036,729, and a decrease in one unit of 5,237, or a net increase of 2,031,492, equivalent to 204 per 1,000.

30. By far the greatest increase is in the Western Division where it reaches 465 per 1,000, the Southern Division shows an increase of 204, and in the Eastern it falls to 92 per 1,000.

For all Rajputana, males have a net increase of 955,268 or 177 per 1,000, the divisions showing the following increase per 1,000 :—

Western		380
Eastern		84

Among females the net increase is—

Rajputana		235 per 1,000
Western Division		571 „ 1,000
Southern	„	244 „ 1,000
Eastern	„	100 „ 1,000

Among the units, the variations are great and range, in the case of both sexes, from an increase of 634 per 1,000 in Bikanir to a decrease of 8 per 1,000 in Bharatpur; in the case of males, from an increase of 498 in Bikanir to a decrease of 7 in Bharatpur; and, in the case of females, from an increase of 820 per 1,000 in Bikanir to a decrease of 9 per 1,000 in Bharatpur.

31. The several units, arranged in the order of increase (per 1,000) in both sexes, are given below in Abstract No. 13, grouped in gradations in contrast with the Rajputana mean, for both sexes and for males and females, these groups being also compared with the density of the population :—

32. The increase in Bikanir, more particularly in the female population, is very great, in the two such differently situated States as Marwar and Banswara, it is great, at the other extreme, it is slight in two such widely apart States as Jesalmir and Karauli, very slight in the contiguous States of Kotah and Jhalawar, while there is a very slight decrease in Bharatpur.

33. In accounting for these changes, there is no doubt the chief cause is the greater accuracy of the present enumeration which is evidenced by the higher ratio of females, this refers in particular to Marwar and Bikanir. In Banswara more correct figures have been obtained by a partial enumeration of Kushalgarh which remained altogether unenumerated in 1881.

34. The comparison with the density does not point to any instance in which the population has moved to any noticeable extent from one part of the province to another. Nor do the agency reports make mention of any such movement.

35. In connection with this subject, Statement No. 14 gives the number of births and deaths registered during the nine years 1882-90 in certain parts of Rajputana and the ratios they bear to the population of 1881. These figures have been kindly supplied by the Residency Surgeon and the Chief Medical Officer, Brigade-Surgeon Lieutenant-Colonel L. D. Spencer, M.D.

In Bharatpur.—This is the only State in which an actual decrease in the total population is shown, and it is a very small one. It is ascribed to the absence of many persons on marriage ceremonies, and it may be that the State happened at that particular time to part with more persons engaged on nuptial business than it received.

40. Turning to the movement of population between town and country, it will be seen from Abstract No. 15 that in all the divisions and in Rajputana generally the ratio of increase in the rural population is everywhere higher than in the urban in the following proportions :—

	Urban Increase.	Rural Increase.
Rajputana	151	215
Western Division	345	482
Southern „	183	237

41. Of the 19 units having an urban population there are 10 which show a higher rate of increase in the rural as compared with the urban population, and in 4 others there is a decrease in the urban and an increase in the rural, and in one (Bharatpur) there is a greater decrease in the urban than in the rural. These figures alone tend to show a flow of population from the towns to the villages.

No explanation has been given of the decrease in the urban population of Bharatpur and Karauli, but it is said the population is attracted towards the towns. The decrease in the urban population of Kotah is due to a disbanding of troops and the discharge of the Revenue Settlement Establishment at the capital. Four States show the following proportional increase in urban population as compared with rural :—

	Urban Increase.	Rural Increase.
Jeypore	151	111
Jhalawar	75	2
Partabgarh	192	94
Sirohi	541	327

Of these, the increase in Jhalawar is due to the accident of the day of enumeration being the market day at the Chaoni of Jhalrapatan, and the increase in Sirohi is caused by the Railway population. The higher rate of increase in the town of Partabgarh, as contrasted with the rural increase in that State, is unaccounted for, but there is no reason to suppose the capital has attracted the village population. There remains the State of Jeypore, in which alone the figures would appear to really indicate a tendency for the rural population to collect in the larger aggregates of over 5,000 inhabitants known as towns, because the returns show nine places which on account of increase of population have been added to the list of towns while only two have been struck off on account of diminished numbers.

42. It would appear then that, in Rajputana generally, the population shows an inclination to move from the towns to the villages, but this is an inference which I agree with the Political Agent, Bikanir, would be erroneous, because the seemingly slower growth of urban population is the result of more accurate enumeration in the towns than in the villages at the census of 1881. Altogether there is nothing to show a decided movement in either direction.

The Animistic highest proportion is in Banswara and next in Dungarpur. The highest proportion of Hindus is found in the Eastern and the lowest in the Southern Division, the latter fact being due to the presence of the Animistic.

Karauli, Dholpur, Bundi, and Kotah, all in the Eastern Division, appear as the States with the highest proportion of Hindus and Partabgarh and Meywar, in the Southern, and Jesalmir in the Western are the States with the lowest.

The Western Division has the highest and the Eastern the lowest proportion of Jains. Sirohi is the State with the highest proportion and is followed by Partabgarh (S.), Lawa (E.), and Marwar (W.).

The highest proportion of Mussalmans is found in the Eastern Division, and among the States Jesalmir holds the first, and Alwar the second place, Bharatpur and Tonk following at a decidedly lower proportion.

Map No. 5 exhibits roughly the centres of the main religions other than Hindu. The coloured spaces represent aggregates of followers corresponding with the square mile density of each unit.

Of all Animistics by far the greater number are found in Meywar, and Banswara is next in the two other States (Partabgarh and Dungarpur) the numbers are much lower.

46. Naturally the bulk of the Hindus are congregated in the States with the greatest population, namely, Jeypore, Marwar, Meywar, Bikanir, and Alwar.

More than half the total number of Sikhs are in Bikanir, and the greater number of the remainder are in Kotah and Jhalawar where they serve in the cavalry, in eleven units they are not to be found at all.

The representatives of the Jain religion are much the most numerous in Marwar, about half as many are in Meywar, and about a quarter as many in Jeypore, and they are fairly represented in Bikanir and Sirohi, there is no part of the province in which they are not to be seen.

Jeypore stands first as having the greater number of Mussalmans, and Alwar and Marwar are not far behind. Musslamans are fairly numerous in Bharatpur, Bikanir, and Meywar, they too are to be met with throughout Rajputana, but there are a very few in Lawa, Shahpura, and in four out of the five States in the Southern Division.

The Christian Community is decidedly the largest in Jeypore, where a U. P. Mission has been established for many years. The next in order is Sirohi which contains the Abu and Railway population and is followed by the U. P. Mission stations of Jodhpore, Alwar, and Meywar. In seven units the Christian religion is altogether unrepresented.

47. The next Statement (No. 19) exhibits, side by side, the percentage to the total population of each of the main religions in 1881 and 1891 and the resulting variations.

* Could not be contrasted as in 1881, the figures for religions for Rajputana and Central India were not separated.

Map No. 5.—The Chief Centres of the Main Religions, other than Hindu, shown approximately by square mile density aggregates of followers.

48. Leaving fractions out of account, it appears that in Rajputana, as a whole, there has absolutely been no change in the relative positions of the main religions towards each other, as the apparent loss in position of the Hindus can be accounted for by the introduction into the present census of the Animistics, who were not separately enumerated in 1881, and who now poll the number subtracted from the Hindus.

49. In the divisions slight changes are observable; the Hindus of the Western Division have increased 4 per cent., while the Jains and Mussalmans have decreased by 3 and 1 per cent., respectively. Marwar showing the greatest changes with an increase of 5 per cent. among Hindus, and a decrease of 3 and 2 per cent. among Jains and Mussalmans. Regarding such changes in Bikanir the Political Agent observed it was probably due to the fact of the Jains and Mussalmans having been more correctly enumerated in 1881 than the Hindus, because the two former are found more in towns.

In the Eastern Division, the Hindus have fallen off by 1 per cent., their place being taken by a similar rise among the numbers of the Jains, this however is no real change as the difference is caused by the Jains in Jhalawar not having been separately enumerated in 1881 but combined with the Hindus, this probably was also the case with the small Thakurate of Lawa where a similar change appears.

An advance of 1 per cent. in the Mussulmans of Alwar has been balanced by an equal diminution among the Mussalmans of Dholpur. In the Southern Division, Jains have advanced 7 per cent. in Partabgarh and have slightly fallen off in Banswara, Dungarpur, and Sirohi. In Partabgarh and Dungarpur, the Mussalmans have increased 1 per cent. in each State, but taken collectively the Southern Division shows no change except that incidental to the introduction of the Animistic belief, which in the returns has been confined to this division, the persons thus returned form nearly six-sevenths of the Bhil forest tribe, their remaining brethren in the Southern Division and those living in the Western and Eastern Divisions have been enumerated as Hindus.

CHAPTER IV.

Age and Sex.—Table VII.

50. The next two Statements (Nos. 20 and 21) give separately for both sexes the ratio at each age period to 10,000 of the enumerated sex population for each division and for all Rajputana in contrast with similar ratios for India in 1891 and England and Wales for 1881.

51. The results of these comparisons are illustrated in the Diagrams A and B.

52. As regards males—Within Rajputana, the Western Division shows the highest ratio up to four years, from 5 to 14 it occupies the middle position among the divisions, and then from 15 to 44 its ratio is the lowest, from there it rises and eventually ends by occupying the highest place from 55 years and onwards.

The Eastern Division has the lowest ratio (excepting from under 1 year) up to 14 years of age; it then rises to the highest ratio which place it retains up to 44 years of age; after a fall and rise through the next two periods, it occupies the middle place from 55 years and over.

The Southern Division has the lowest ratio under 1 year, from 5 to 14 it has the highest, through youth and middle age, it stands in the centre, and from 45 years onwards its ratio is the lowest.

53. Compared with India and England and Wales, Rajputana has the highest ratio of males under 1 year of age, it holds the centre place up to 19 years of age, at from 20 to 24 its ratio is the lowest of the three, but at 30 to 34 it again rises to the highest ratio, from then onwards to 50 its ratio alternately falls to the lowest and rises to the highest place. At 50 to 54 the ratio is once more the highest, and then it falls through the 55 to 59 period to the lowest place at 60 and over.

54. In the case of females—The Western Division up to 9 years shows the same course as the males, but at 10 to 14 it occupies the highest place instead of the centre as in the case of males, then from 15 to 44 years its ratio is the lowest of the three divisions as is the case with males. In fact, the course of the ratio of this division on to the end of the age periods is just the same as in the case of the males.

In the Eastern Division the course of female ratios is similar to that of the males up to 34 years of age, after that, it shows a little more variation but ends in the same position as the males.

In the Southern Division, the only difference between the course of female and male ratios, is a fall from the highest to the centre ratio at from 10 to 14, and a rise from the centre to the highest ratio at from 15 to 19, also a rise to the highest ratio at from 35 to 39.

The female ratios for Rajputana, when compared with those for India and England and Wales, show the following divergencies when contrasted with the male ratios.

They hold the highest place up to 4 years and not only under 1 year. They fall to the lowest place at 10 and there remain up to 29 years instead of as with the males, holding the middle place from 10 to 19, falling to the lowest at from 20 to 24, and then rising to the centre at 25 to 29.

The remaining variations of position in the female ratios, as compared with India and England and Wales, are much the same as with the males.

55. In showing the age ratios for the four main religions, Animistic, Hindu, Jain, and Mussalman, in Statements Nos. 22, 23, 24, 25, the age-periods have been grouped into five stages which closely correspond with those used at the census of 1881, namely, infancy, childhood, youth, middle age and declining years, male and female figures being given side by side, and from a short abstract at the foot of each statement, the approximate portion of each sex which supports or is dependent on the other, will be seen.

57. It is evident from the above figures that the Mussalmans have the highest proportion of both males and females in vigorous life, and the Jains the lowest. The highest proportion of Hindus and Jains in the vigour of life is found in the Eastern Division, and that of Mussalmans in the Southern Division. In the Western Division the proportion is lowest for all three religions.

Proportion of the Sexes.

58. In order to render comparison with the Census of 1881 possible the age periods have again been grouped into the stages which closely correspond with those employed in the Rajputana Census of 1881. In Table No. 26 the results for the periods thus grouped are shown in the form of the number of females to 1,000 males for each division and for Rajputana, the last being contrasted with 1881.

Abstract No. 26.

59. In Rajputana the number of females, for all ages, to 1,000 males is 891, as compared with 849 in 1881 or an advance, in numbers, of 42 in the 1,000 which points to the greater accuracy of the last enumerations.

There has been (as compared with 1881) an increase in the number of females in 4 out of the 5 stages of age periods, the greatest being in the 5 to 14 stage, while in the 45 and over stage there is a decrease which is more than double the increase of the 5 to 14 stage.

Taking the present census alone, the proportion of females is highest up to 4 years of age (977) and next at 45 years and over (963), or at the two extremes ; it is lowest at from 5 to 14 (820), and next lowest, from 15 to 29 (867).

In the divisions, females of all ages are the highest in proportion, in the southern (918), and lowest in the Eastern (878).

In the divisions also the females are highest in proportion at the extremes of age.

The proportion of females is the highest of all at 45 and over in the Southern Division and is greater than the males (1,143), and is at its lowest at 5 to 14 in the Eastern and Southern Divisions where it only amounts to 797 and 800, per 1,000 males.

60. The 18 age periods of the present census are shown in the next Statement No. 27 arranged in the order of the highest proportion of females and contrasted with similar periods for Ajmere, the Punjab, North-Western Provinces, India, and England and Wales.

61. It will be observed that females predominate at the age periods of under 1 year, 3 years, and 60 and over, while they are fewest in proportion at the periods of 15 to 19 and 10 to 14.

For all ages the proportion of females is higher than in Ajmere and the Punjab, rather lower than in the North-Western Provinces, and lower than in the whole of India.

62. The periods of the greatest variance in the proportion of the sexes, i.e., under 1 year, 3 years, 10 to 14, 15 to 19, and 60 and over, it will be noticed, are not peculiar to Rajputana but they have been selected for further consideration with reference to the Divisions, Units, and Religions. They cannot be traced in the castes as age-periods, for castes have not been recorded.

63. Pursuing the inquiry regarding the proportions of females in certain selected age-periods, where variation is the greatest, we find from Statements Nos. 28 and 29 as regards the under 1 year period—There is no great difference in the divisions, among the territorial units the proportion is highest in Kotah where it reaches 1,081 but it falls as low as 865 and 746 in Dholpur and Lawa, and in religions the females predominate most in the Animistic (1,095), the lowest proportion being among the Christians at this age-period. At the 3 years period—The proportion varies from an excess (1,066) in the Eastern to a minority (936) in the Western Division. The proportion is great in the small unit of Lawa (1,540) and fairly so in Bundi and Kotah (1,203—1,178), while in Jesalmir it falls to 908. Jains show the highest proportion among religions (1,048), and the Sikhs, the lowest 545. At the 10-14 period—The females are in the highest proportion in the Western (855) and in the lowest in the Eastern Division (698); this is caused by the comparatively high proportion in Marwar and Bikanir (876—808), and the very low proportion in the five Eastern States, Bharatpur (694), Karauli (684), Jeypore (682), Bundi (681), and Dholpur (665). At this period the Christians show the highest proportion (937), the Sikhs the lowest (528). At from 15 to 19 years—The Western Division has again the highest proportion (820) and the Eastern the lowest (753).

64. Of the territorial units, Lawa (877) and Marwar (842) have the highest, Shahpura (709) and Jesalmir (674) the lowest proportion of females.

Again the Christian religion has the highest proportion, and the Sikh the lowest.

At the 60 years and over period the females predominate most in the Southern Division (1,463). In the territorial units of Banswara and Dungarpur of that division they predominate greatly (1,960) and (1,908), they outnumber the males the least in Bharatpur (1,035) and Alwar (1,010).

Here the Animistic religion shows females the most in excess (1,537) and Jains are next (1,328.)

65. The Christian and Sikh religions show minorities (466), (450).
Tracing the proportion of females through these age-periods for religions only, it will be seen the Animistic shows the highest proportion generally.
The Sikh starts with the second highest proportion at under 1 year and then falls to the lowest, and a very small proportion at the other 4 periods.
The Hindu and Mussalman approach each other all through, the Hindus showing the higher proportions at the under 1, and 60 and over periods, and the Mussalmans at the periods from 10 to 20. The Jains beginning with a proportion below average, rise next to the highest proportion and then keep the second place at the remaining three periods. The Christian religion starts with the lowest proportion, rises a step at the 3 year period and then attains the highest proportion which it maintains from 10 to 20, at 60 and over it falls again to the second lowest proportion.

66. In Statement No. 30 is shown the proportion of females to males for the caste groups in Rajputana and in each of its divisions.

67. In Rajputana the caste groups fall in the following order of highest ratio of the females :—

Class.	Female Ratio.
E.—Vagrants, minor artisans and performers	941
C.—Commercial	919
D.—Artisans and village menials	919
B.—Professional	916
F.—Races and nationalities	862
A.—Agricultural	845

68. The ratios of classes C, D, and E are generally high in all the divisions. Class C being particularly high in the West and high in the East by reason of the peculiar position of the traders of those parts with regard to their families, which has already been alluded to in para. 20.

In the Southern Division—The professional Class B, the females outnumber the males, this is chiefly due to the large proportion of females among the “Dakotes”, 4,455 to 1,588, the “Raj Bhats”, 5,400 to 2,000, the “Bhat”, 6,100 to 4,100, and the “Brahmins” 81,000 to 78,000 or so, and this again is caused by many of the male members of these castes happening to have been absent on begging expeditions at the time of enumeration.

69. Turning now to certain castes which have been selected either for their numerical consequence or their local repute, it is shown by Abstract No. (31) in the margin, that the females outnumber the males in the (1) Bagri, (2) Moghia, (3) Rabari, (4) Jain Mahajan, (5) Kanjar, and (6) Sunnar castes, that their ratios are high among the Mahajans as a whole (Jain and Hindu together) Hindu Mahajans alone, Mehtars, Bhils, Bham-bhis, Brahmins, Kumhars, and Chamars are low among the Balais, Ahirs and Jats, and very low with the Gujars and Rajputs, the latter having the lowest proportion of all those castes.

70. All the figures above referred to and those given for the chief Rajput clans in the provincial tables appear to bear out the opinion expressed from Jeypore, Sirohi, and Bikanir that there is both a disposition not to return female ages between 10 and 20, and a reluctance to return females at all between those two ages, also that early marriage causes special mortality at that period ; this desire not to return females between the ages of 10 and 20 is said, in Bikanir, to be greatest among Rajputs, and in Jeypore is ascribed to the still prevailing idea in the districts, that the knowledge of the existence of females of that age would lead to abduction !! The above conclusions are traced through the figures below :—

CHAPTER V.

Civil Condition.—Table VIII.

71. Imperial Table No. VIII exhibits how many persons of each sex were at the time of the census unmarried, married, or widowed respectively. This information is, however, only available for the few Europeans and Eurasians, and the population within Military cantonments and Railway limits.

It was not thought advisable to attempt the collection of details as to their domestic relations from the people of the States.

72. There were 16,716 persons at the Census of 1891, about whose civil condition complete statistics were collected. Of these 11,080 were males and 5,636 were females, a number so insignificant, compared with the total population of Rajputana, that it would be useless to spend time in commenting on the figures.

73. In what proportion the single, married, and widowed composing this population are distributed according to age, sex, religion, and the different civil conditions, the following Statements (Nos. 32 and 33) will show:—

CHAPTER VI.

Infirmities.—Tables XII to XV A.

74. No comparison can be made with the former census, as infirmities were not returned in 1881. Deaf mutes have not been returned by the Rajputana States at the present census; the other three infirmities are shown in the Abstract below (No. 34) for the three age periods of under 20, from 20 to 50, and for 50 years and over, by ratios to 1,000 of the afflicted of each sex. It will be noticed how the ratio for blindness increases from stage to stage in both sexes, and the great increase in the case of females over 50 years of age, also the great rise in the ratio of lepers of both sexes after 20 years of age.

Abstract No. 34.

Lepers . . .	84	135	584	530	332	335

75. The next Abstract (No. 35) gives, for the same periods of age, the proportion of those afflicted to 100,000 of the total number of each sex at those ages. Here is noticeable the very great increase in proportion of the blind in both sexes after 50 years of age, and the insignificant proportion of lepers until 20 years of age, the female proportion for that infirmity continuing small through all ages.

Abstract No. 35.

INFIRMITY.	DISTRIBUTION BY AGE OF 100,000 AFFLICTED OF EACH SEX.

Blind . . .	108	90	215	222	1,207	1,785
Lepers . . .	4	2	29	8	63	19

76. In contrasting the proportion of females afflicted with that of males for all ages and at five periods of age, in Abstract No. 36 there is given at the foot of the abstract the ratio of females to males for the entire enumerated population as a guide in estimating the value of the figures in the abstract.

Abstract No 36.

INFIRMITY.	PROPORTION OF FEMALES AFFLICTED TO 1,000 AFFLICTED MALES.
	0-14.	5 to 14.	15 to 29.	30 to 44.	45 and over.	All ages.

Ratio of females to males of entire enumerated population	977	820	867	900	963	891

77. In the case of insanity the proportion of females is lower than that of males at all ages; it is at its lowest at from 5 to 14 years, and at its highest at 45 years and over.
78. The proportion of blind females to males is greater at all ages taken together, and is remarkably high after 50 years of age. Sirohi in the Southern Division shows the highest proportion at all ages together (1,605), and is followed by two States of the Western Division, Bikanir (1,462) and Marwar (1,445).
79. The proportion of female lepers is highest up to 4 years of age, it then decreases at every age-period until at 30 to 44 years it is at its lowest, there is a slight rise from 45 years of age, for all ages the proportion is very small.
80. The proportion of those afflicted with the infirmities of insanity, blindness, and leprosy to the total strength of those castes and tribes, in which the greater number of persons thus afflicted are found, is shown in Abstract No. 37 for both sexes and for each sex separately, the basis of comparison being 100,000 persons of the caste or sect, and of each sex in the caste or sect.
81. Insanity and blindness are most prevalent in the Mahajan caste and the Shekh sect of Mussulmans.
- Leprosy is most prevalent among the Hindu Hujjams or Nais and the Mahajans, particularly so among the male members of those castes.
- Taking the three infirmities together, the Mahajans are the most sorely afflicted of all the castes and tribes, the Rajputs occupy the sixth place for each infirmity.

Abstract No. 37.

Proportion of the afflicted to 100,000 persons of the castes and tribes, and sexes of the castes and tribes in which the greater number of afflicted are found in the order of magnitude of those afflicted.

CHAPTER VII.

Education.—Table IX.

82. The information under this head was not recorded by the States of Rajputana, but from the most recent reports on the subject the two statements below (No. 38 and No. 39) have been drawn up to show roughly the present position of education in Rajputana.

83. In the first Statement No. 38 the ratios of males and females under education, to the total and school-going age population, is shown for Rajputana and Jeypore and Alwar (the two States in which education has advanced most), together with similar information for India.

For males the figures are as follows :—

								RATIO PER 1,000

For females the figures are :—

84. The position of Alwar, more particularly as regards female education, deserves attention.

From the remarks made in Statement No. 39 it will be observed that in the matter of higher education the States stand in the order of the highest number of scholars as follows :—

1. Jeypore	1,709	6. Bharatpur	142
2. Alwar	514	7. Kota	118

CHAPTER VIII.

Languages—Table X.

85. No information has been collected regarding the languages spoken in the States.

The language chiefly understood by the agricultural population of the country is Hindi, and its 5 dialects, namely, (1) Marwari, (2) Dhundari, (3) Brij Bhasha, (4) Mewáti, and (5) Meywari.

Marwari is largely spoken in the Western States of Marwar, Jesalmir, and Bikanir, and in Kishengarh and Sirohi.

In Bundi, Kotah, Shahpura, and Jhallawar there appears a dialect which is more Marwari than anything else, as there is very little difference between the two, except in pronunciation.

Dhundari is common in Jeypore and Lawa.

Mewáti is localised at Alwar.

Brij Bhasha is the dialect of the Eastern States of Bharatpur, Karauli, and Dholpur.

Meywari pervades the whole of the Southern Division. Here the Bhils and Grassias speak a speech of their own, which is much interspersed with Guzerati words.

Some Guzerati is also used in Banswara, Dungarpur, and Sirohi.

The study of Hindustani or Urdu is spreading throughout the province. It is the court language at the capitals of some Durbars.

86. The few Europeans and Eurasians and the population within military cantonments and railway limits, for whom full information as to languages was collected, number 16,716 souls, of whom 1,144 speak the several European tongues as noted below :—

CHAPTER IX.

Birth-place—Table XI.

88. Out of the total population of 12,220,343, those enumerated by the detail of birth-place amount to 11,986,196. The distribution by birth-place for every 10,000 of that number is as follows:—

1. Born in Rajputana	9,660
2. Born in territory adjoining Rajputana	322
3. Born in other parts of India	16·9
4. Born in Asiatic countries beyond India	·9
5. Born in Europe and elsewhere	·2

89. Of the main census divisions of Rajputana, the Western has the highest and the Eastern the lowest proportion of indigenous population.

90. The division with the highest proportion of persons born in States contiguous to Rajputana is the Eastern, and that with the lowest proportion is the Western.

91. Of persons whose birth-places are in other parts of India, the highest proportion is found in the Western Division, and the lowest in the Eastern.

92. Persons born in other countries of Asia are in the highest proportion in the Southern Division. The Abstract below (No. 40) gives the proportional figures for each division for 10,000 of the enumerated population:—

Abstract No. 40.

Southern	9,648	340·9	7·5	3	·6

93. I regret that want of time prevents the preparation of a statement, showing the interchange of population within Rajputana itself.

94. The interchange of population with territory contiguous to Rajputana, is shown in the following three Abstracts (Nos. 41, 42, and 43). In the case of both sexes the surrounding provinces have received a considerably greater number of people than they have given to Rajputana this is notably the case with the Bombay presidency:—

95. The balance against Rajputana is still greater in the case of males and has been mostly in favour of the Bombay Presidency and Central India.

The Bombay Presidency has been the greatest gainer in the case of females as well.

96. The results of the interchange of population between Ajmere-Merwara and those units of Rajputana with whom the exchange chiefly takes place, is shown in the above Abstract No. 44.

97. The general result is a balance against Rajputana in the case of both sexes which is due to the balances against the States of Marwar and Jeypore. Kishengarh has gained in the case of females.

Abstract No. 45.

98. Persons born in Ajmere-Merwara were found living mostly in Meywar, Kishengarh, Marwar, Jeypore, and Shahpura, in the above order (Abstract No. 45).

99. Those born in the Central India States were found in by far the greatest number in Jhalawar, and next in order they were enumerated in Meywar, Partabgarh, Kotah, and Dholpur.

100. People born in the Punjab were mostly enumerated in Alwar, Bikanir, Jeypore, and Bharatpur, and those born in the North-Western Provinces in Bharatpur, Dholpur, and Jeypore.

101. The Bombay Presidency born people were mostly enumerated in Marwar, Sirohi, and Jesalmir, in the last State they were almost all from Sindh.

* The figures in the "Receive" column are those for Rajputana only, if those for the detached areas situated in Tonk be added, they become 13,771 and 19,590 instead of 1,291 and 3,163.

102. In the above Abstract (No. 46) is shown, for the nine States for which only statistics are available, side by side, the number of persons born in Central India and the North-Western Provinces enumerated in those States, and the number of persons born in those States enumerated in Central India and the North-Western Provinces, together with the result of the comparison.

103. Looking upon the former class as received and the latter as parted with, it will be seen the balance against Tonk is very great in the case of both sexes, even when the Central India figures are added to those for Rajputana (as they ought to be for fair comparison) the balance against Tonk then remains 74,093 males and 55,915 females. Jeypore and Jodhpore both have large balances against them in their interchange with Central India, and Jhalawar and Meywar have fairly large ones, while Dholpur is a fair gainer in the case of females.

104. In interchange with the North-West Provinces, Bharatpur has parted with many thousands more of males and females than it has obtained from those provinces.

NOTE 1.—The figures for the Southern Division are incomplete as caste returns for Banswara and Partabgarh were not prepared. The figures of total population for Dungarpur, Meywar, Sirohi include unenumerated population.

NOTE 2.—Oswals and Saraogis under head "Writers" in Class B of Table XVI have been transferred to Class C under "Traders" for the purpose of ratio calculation of Mahajans and commercial class.

105. Observed from this point of view, the population of Rajputana is distributed among the caste and tribe groups in the following manner :—

CLASS.	Ratio per 1,000 of Total Population.
A.—Agricultural	377
D.—Artisan and Village Menials	312
B.—Professional	160
C.—Commercial	77
E.—Vagrant Minor Artisans and Performers	15

106. The agricultural class has the highest ratio in the Western Division, but the figures for the three divisions are very close, namely :—

Western	388
Southern	354

The units with the highest and lowest ratios of the agricultural class are—

Highest.					Lowest.
Jhalawar				476	Jesalmir				337
Bundi				445	Sirohi				331
Kotah				435	Tonk				327
Karauli				434	Lawa				309

107. It should be noted here that the populations of Partabgarh and Banswara are omitted in the calculation of these ratios, as caste returns were not received from those States, but the unenumerated Bhils of Meywar and Dungarpur and the unenumerated Grassias of Serohi have been included, those States having prepared the caste statistics.

These unenumerated Bhils and Grassias represent the remaining 19 per 1,000 of the population, and if they be added to class A like their enumerated fellows, the ratio for that class rises to 396 for Rajputana, and to 446 for the Southern Division which latter would then head the divisions for class A.

108. The professional class (B) has its highest ratio in the Western Division, the three divisions are represented by the following figures:—

Western	180
Eastern	159
Southern	132

Among the units the highest and lowest figures are—

Highest.					Lowest.
Bikanir				184	Jhalawar				109
Marwar				183	Sirohi				100
Dholpur				178	Jesalmir				91
Karauli				175	Lawa				80

109. The division with the greatest proportion of the commercial class (C) is the Western, the three divisions stand in the following order:—

	Ratio.
Western	91
Eastern	70

The States with the highest and lowest ratios for this class are—

Highest.					Lowest.
Sirohi				102	Bundi				53
Marwar				95	Dholpur				49
Jeypore				86	Jhalawar				47
Bikanir }				81	Kotah				45
Kishengarh }

110. Class D (Artisans and Village Menials) is represented in the three divisions by the following figures:—

Eastern	325
Western	297

The units containing the highest and lowest ratios of this class are—

Highest.					Lowest.
Lawa				514	Karauli				280
Shahpura				407	Jesalmir				258
Alwar				374	Sirohi				241
Tonk in Rajputana				355	Dungarpur				182

111. The class of Vagrants, Minor Artisans, and Performers (E) has its highest proportion in the Southern Division, its lowest in the Eastern, the figures for the divisions being—

Southern	23
Western	21
Eastern	9

Among the different units this class varies greatly in Sirohi, the ratio is as much as 185, the other three highest ratios are—

Jhalawar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	35
Marwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	27
Lawa	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	22

The lowest ratios are very small, namely :—

Jesalmir	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	}	3
Alwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.
Bharatpur	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.
Dholpur	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	}	2
Karauli	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.
Dungarpur	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.		1

112. Much the highest ratio of class F.—Races and Nationalities is found in the Eastern Division (58), in the other two divisions the ratio is the same namely, 22.

This class is very high in proportion in Jesalmir, the figures for that State and those which follow it in the highest ratio are—

Jesalmir	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	252
Tonk in Rajputana	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	121
Bharatpur	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	87
Jeypore	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	62
Dholpur	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	60

In the following States the ratio is the lowest, viz. :—

Bundi	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	21
Marwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	16
Bikanir	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	}	9
Dungarpur	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.

113. The details of the figures above noticed are given in Abstract No. 47 at the head of this chapter.

114. In the next Abstract No. 48 those castes which are of the most importance numerically, and others which are of consequence on account of local repute, are given in the order of numerical strength, it is shown at the same time the proportion they bear to the total population of Rajputana (excluding the population of Banswara and Pertabgarh for the reason already mentioned).

Abstract 48.

115. The Brahmins lead and are followed by the Jats; Mahajans and Chamars come next in pretty equal numbers, then come the Rajputs and next to them, the Bhils.

116. The distribution of some of these selected castes, namely, (1) Brahmin, (2) Jats, (3) Mahajans, (4) Chamars, (5) Rajputs, (6) Bhils, (7) Gujars, (8) Minas, (9) Charans, (10) Moghias or Baoris, (11) Bagris, and (12) Nagas as shown by the proportion they bear to the total population in each division, and unit on the basis of 1,000 of the latter is as follows:—

(1) Brahmins.

The Nagas are only found in any number in the Jeypore and Marwar States, where their ratios are 4 and 2 per 1,000. In five other States they are resident in small numbers.

117. As these interesting folk have recently been the subject of some correspondence, a brief notice of them, founded on information received from Jeypore and Jodhpore, is here given.

Dadu-panthi-Nagas.

118. From Jeypore where the sect is most prominent, the following account has been received.

119. The Dadu-panthi sect was founded some 300 years ago by Dadu, the son of a Nagar Brahmin of Ahmedabad, who quitting that place travelled to Bali in Marwar, from there to Kishengarh and then to Sambhar where he remained and came under the notice of the Maharaja of Amber. He died at Naraina not far from Sambhar where his followers still assemble once a year.

Out of all his numerous disciples only 52 adopted successors who became the founders of the 52 "Thambas" or "Gaddis" now to be found in Jeypore, Jodhpore, Bikanir, and Alwar, the most important of which are in Jeypore.

The cardinal points of Dadu's teaching which is acted up to by his followers are—

- (i) The equality of all men.
- (ii) Vegetarianism.
- (iii) Total abstinence.
- (iv) Lifelong celibacy.

The most esteemed among the Dadu-panthis are known among themselves as "Virekta" which signifies complete self-denial, the others are known by the general name of Sadhu or Swami, among whom is the particular section called Naga which name, it is said, is applied to them owing to the scantiness of the "Dhoti" they wear which leave the impression of Naga or nakedness.

The worship of the Dadu-panthis consists in the veneration with which they regard their sacred book, the Dadu-Bauni, copies of which are kept in sanctuaries known as Dadu-dwara where daily offerings of sandal wood and flowers are presented to them.

The Nagas owe their origin to one Sundar Das, an old Rajput of Bikanir, who was permitted by Dadu to become his disciple without abandoning his profession of arms.

The Nagas are now a purely military class noted for their fidelity to the Durbar, they are quartered in different parts of the State and receive both pay and land for their services. Strict celibacy being enjoined the Dadu-panthis recruit their numbers by adoption from all, but the lowest castes of Hindus and Mussalmans. In the case of Nagas the adopted boys are at once put into active training and thus develop into young men of fine physique.

The well-to-do Dadu-panthis of Jeypore have established "Garden-Houses" which are open to Sadhus of all creeds as places of rest while on their pilgrimages.

The Dadu-panthis of Jeypore, of whom there are 11,672 inclusive of 5,371 "Nagas", have all been entered in the returns as devotees under Class B.—"Professional."

There are no Dadu-panthi women as woman is unknown to the sect, if a Dadu-panthi marries or forms a connection with any woman he is considered an apostate.

120. The information from Jodhpore differs in the following particulars.

It is said there are two distinct sects of Dadu-panthis, those who marry and are known as "Gharbaris" (with regard to these, Jeypore considers them as either a different sect or Apostate Dadu-panthis), and the Nagas who do not marry; 2,008 females of the "Gharbari" sect have been returned, who it is said will only marry with Dadu-panthis.

The appellation of Naga is said to signify nakedness, in the sense of homeless that is without household ties.

121. The abstracts which show for the above 12 castes and the 14 others mentioned in Abstract No. (49), their ratios to 1,000 of the total population, and the proportion females bear to 1,000 males, and from which the above quoted figures have been taken, are given below:—

123. The next Abstract, No. 51, exhibits, in class order, all castes numbering over 50,000 by the percentage they bear to the total enumerated Hindu population.

124. The highest percentage is that of Brahmins and Jats, the one rather over and the other a little under 11 per cent., the next in order of highest percentage are—

Chamar, a little over 8 per cent., Rajputs rather less than 8 per cent.

Gujars 6 per cent, Minas and Mahajans 5 per cent. each.

These 35 castes altogether represent 84 per cent. of the enumerated Hindu population.

Statement No. 51.

Total Hindu and Arya population = 9,950,527. These figures exclude the Hindu population of Banswara and Partabgarh States, as also 28 Sikhs and 131,238 Bhils enumerated as Hindus in Table VI.

125. In Abstract No. 52, the percentage borne by Mussulman sects and tribes (numbering over 10,000) to the total Mussulman population is given.

Those who have returned themselves as Sheikhs have very much the highest percentage (34); the others next highest in order of percentage are—

Meos		15
Pathans		11
Snidhis		5
Rajput converts		4
Saids and Fakirs		3

126. Further particulars about the Mussulmans will be found in the Provincial tables. (Table No. V).

CHAPTER XI.

Occupations.—Tables XVIIIA—XVIIB.

127. Though little mention has been made of the fact in the reports received, I am aware that considerable difficulty was experienced in filling up the "Occupation" column of the schedules, the enumerators had not the classified list to guide them as it was not ready at the time, and the numerous instances in which occupations were found combined often made it no easy matter to select the occupation for entry. For these reasons the return of occupations must be accepted as somewhat general and in many cases only approximate.

128. As entries were not made by age-periods it cannot be shewn what proportion children and old people bear to those really occupied, nor can any comparison be instituted between actual workers and those dependent on them as these figures were not abstracted separately.

129. Being the last of the Imperial Tables and one which took much time to prepare there is little opportunity left for scrutinising its figures, but in Abstract Nos. 53 and 54, given below, some results are shewn among which are the following.

Abstract No. 54.

Abstract showing the Proportion borne by certain selected Occupations to the total population of the State and in Town and Country separately by Divisions; also the proportion of Females engaged in those Occupations, at the Ratios of 1,000 of the total population to those employed in the occupations and 1,000 males respectively.

NOTE.—In Bharatpur and Karauli "Live Stock" have been included under "Agriculture" and not shown separately.
* Unenumerated Grassias included in calculating the proportion borne by occupations to total population of the Serohi States.

130. In Rajputana the classes of occupations stand in order of numerical importance as below :—

Classes of occupations.	Ratio to 1,000 of total population.
1. Pasture and agriculture, Class B	564
2. Preparation and supply of material substances, Class D	149
3. Indefinite and independent occupations, Class G	99
4. Commerce, transport and storage, Class E	63
5. Personal service, Class C	54
6. Government, Class A	42
7. Professions, learned, artistic and minor, Class F	28

The ratio of females to 1,000 males in the different classes is—

Classes of occupations.	Ratio of females to 1,000 males.
G. Indefinite and independent	1,019
D. Preparation and supply of material substances	939
E. Commerce, transport and storage	929
B. Pasturage and Agriculture	870
F. Professions, learned, artistic and minor	867
C. Personal service	864
A. Government	716

As already stated these figures include females dependent on those who work, as well as those occupied themselves.

131. The relative strength of Class A—Government in the three census divisions is—

	Ratio.
Eastern Division	55
Western „	29
Southern „	24

The States in which the ratios are highest and lowest are—

	Highest.		Lowest.
Karauli	120	Sirohi	19
Bharatpur	70	Bikanir	14

The proportion of this class (to 1,000 of the total population) occupied in the town and country in each division is—

	Town.	Country.
Western Division	7	22
Eastern „	30	25
Southern „	11	13

132. The division with the highest ratio for Class B—Pasture and Agriculture, is the Western, the figures are—

Western Division	618
Southern „	599
Eastern „	523

The highest and lowest ratios appear in the States as follows :—

	Highest.		Lowest.
Dholpur	768	Bundi	474
Bikanir	764	Tonk in Rajputana	466
Jesalmir	669	Kotah	437

The proportion of Class B in town and country in the three divisions is according to the following ratios to 1,000 of the total population :—

	Town.	Country.
Western Division	33	585
Eastern „	26	497
Southern „	13	586

Taking the two sub-orders of Class B, viz.: Live Stock and Agriculture separately, the ratios for the divisions are—

	Live Stock.	Agriculture.	TOTAL.
Western Division	45	573	618
Southern „	7	592	599

The States which show the highest ratios for Live Stock are—

Jesalmir	188
Marwar	51

The proportion of females in the two sub-orders for the divisions are—

	Live Stock.	Agriculture.
Western Division	956	869
Eastern „	863	859
Southern „	633	894
For Rajputana	900	869

133. Class C—Personal service is represented in the divisions as below :—

Eastern Division	70
Southern „	39
Western „	35

The States with the highest and lowest ratios are—

	Highest.		Lowest.
Tonk in Rajputana	78	Karauli	23
Alwar	77	Jesalmir	10

In town and country this class is represented by the following ratios to the total population :—

	Town.	Country.
Western Division	13	22
Eastern „	20	50

134. The figures for Class D.—Preparation and supply of material substances are for the divisions :—

Southern Division	102
Eastern „	149
Western „	151

For States the highest and lowest ratios are—

	Highest.		Lowest.
Dungarpur	325	Bikanir	90
Alwar	196	Karauli	78
Sirohi	185	Bharatpur	69

In town and country this class has the following figures in the divisions :—

	Town.	Country.
Western Division	32	99
Southern „	22	160

135. Commerce, transport and storage, Class E, has the following ratios in the divisions :—

Western Division	116
Southern „	47
Eastern „	39

In the States the highest and lowest ratios are—

	Highest.		Lowest.
Marwar	147	Bikanir	23
Sirohi	119	Dholpur	18
Jesalmir	108	Jhalawar	15

The town and county ratios for divisions are—

	Town.	Country.
Western Division	16	100
Eastern „	12	27
Southern „	9	38

136. For the learned, artistic and minor professions (Class F) the divisional ratios are—

Eastern Division	36
Southern „	21
Western „	17

The highest and lowest ratios for States are—

	Highest.		Lowest.
Jeypore	53	Bharatpur	7
Dungarpur	45	Serohi	6
Alwar	38	Jasalmir	1

In Town and Country the Divisional ratios are—

	Town.	Country.
Western Division	5	12

137. Class G.—Indefinite and Independent is represented in the divisions by the ratios below :—

Eastern Division	128
Southern „	88
Western „	54

The States with the highest and lowest ratios are—

	Highest.		Lowest.
Bundi	258	Jesalmir	44
Kotah	232	Dungarpur	35
Tonk in Rajputana	222	Serohi	29
Bharatpur	214	Dholpur	26

For town and country the ratios for the divisions are—

	Town.	Country.
Western Division	10	44

The high ratio of females in this class is greatest in the undermentioned States :—

Meywar	1,229
Dungarpur	1,212
Kishengarh	1,130
Alwar	1,080
Jeypore	1,047
Bikanir	1,045

138. Within Class G, the order of unskilled labour is represented in the three divisions by the ratios :—

Southern „	54
Western „	8

The relatively high proportion in the Eastern and Southern Divisions is to be accounted for, by agricultural labourers having been in many units included, while in the Western they have been, as a rule, excluded.

The highest ratios are found in the States of—

Bundi	234
Kotah	198
Tonk in Rajputana	182
Bharatpur	179

The proportion of females to males in the three divisions are in the following ratios :—

Western „	1,214
Eastern „	1,019

The States with the highest female ratios are—

Dungarpur	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	3,417
Meywar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1,454
Kishengarh	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1,313
Bikanir	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1,284
Alwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1,274

In town and country this order stands at the undermentioned ratios for the divisions:—

							Town.	Country.
Western Division	.	.	.	.	.	.	4	4
Eastern	„	.	.	.	.	.	17	78
Southern	„	.	.	.	.	.	4	50

139. The above figures for the Eastern and Southern Divisions appear to bear out the idea that agricultural labourers have been included in this order in these two divisions.

Another order within Class G, that of mendicancy not being affiliated to a religious order, has the following ratios for the Divisions:—

Western Division	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	45
Eastern	„	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	31

The units with the highest ratios are—

Marwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	51
Shahpura	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	48
Jesalmir	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	43
Lawa	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	43
Jhalawar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	37

In town and country the order is represented by the following ratios:—

							Town.	Country.
Western Division	.	.	.	.	.	.	5	40
Eastern	„	.	.	.	.	.	7	24

The female ratios for the divisions are—

Western	„	.	.	.	.	.	.	918
Southern	„	.	.	.	.	.	.	889

The highest female ratios are found in—

Jeypore	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1,123
Lawa	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1,000
Meywar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	998
Marwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	939

It is probable some religious mendicants have been counted within this order.

140. Many of the local industries, special to certain parts of the Province, such as, Iron manufacture in Alwar, Marble sculpture and enamelling in Jeypore, “Tie and Die” work in Jeypore and Kotah, Ivory-in-laid work in Kotah, and Lui or blanket manufacture in Jesalmir and Bikanir, cannot be traced as the workers in them have been included under more general heads. The numbers for others, which have been compiled separately, will be found in Abstract No. 55. Out of the ten industries therein noted, in five only are the numbers employed sufficiently large to show a ratio per 1,000 of total population of the States they live in, these are the dyers, printers, etc., of cotton cloth, salt preparers and sellers, cotton cleaners and pressers, oil pressers, and workers in wool and fur.

141. The cotton cloth dyers and printers have their highest ratios in—

Kotah	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	6
Jeypore	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	5
Jhalawar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	4
Marwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1

In town and country their ratios are—

									Town.	Country.
Kotah	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	...	6
Jeypore	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1	4
Jhalawar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1	3
Marwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	...	1

The females engaged in and dependent on this industry have the following ratios to the males :—

Marwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	1,351
Jhalawar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	894
Jeypore	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	880
Kotah	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	630

The females number 356 to 30 males, in the country.

142. The salt preparers and sellers in Marwar show a ratio of 1 per 1,000 of the total population, all employed in towns.

143. Cotton cleaners and pressers in Jeypore and Alwar have ratios of 2 and 1 respectively to 1,000 of the total population which are also the ratios for the country.

The female ratios for town and country are—

									Town.	Country.
Alwar	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	124	1,051
Jeypore	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	871	993

144. The oil pressers of Sirohi have a ratio of 8 to a thousand of the total population, the town and country ratios are equal, but the difference in the female ratios of town and country is considerable, i.e., town 173, country 5,076 to 1,000 males.

In good seasons, many of those employed on this industry take to cultivation as well.

145. The workers in wool and fur of Jeypore show a ratio of 24 to 1,000 of the total population, the ratios for town and country being 5 and 19 to 1,000 of the total population, the female ratios in town and country are 1,069 and 927 to 1,000 males.

146. The numbers of the workers in metal of Bhilwara in Meywar, the ivory-carvers of Marwar and Bikanir, the opium manufacturers and sellers of Jhalawar, the stone dressers of Jeypore and the sword and scabbard makers of Sirohi are so small as to show no ratio to 1,000 of the total population of the States they are residents of. If the figures for opium manufacturers and sellers in Jhalawar are correct, that industry has fallen greatly.

Abstract No. 55.

Abstract showing the proportion borne by certain special industries in States to total population of the State and in town and country separately, also the proportion of females engaged in those industries, at the ratios of 1,000 of the total population to those employed in the industry and 1,000 males respectively.

CHAPTER XII.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE CENSUS OPERATIONS.

Preliminary Remarks.

147. As soon as it was decided by His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council that a census of the whole population of India should be taken on the night of the 26th February 1891, Kharitas were addressed personally by the Agent to the Governor General to the various Chiefs inviting their co-operation in the taking of the census. Cordial replies were received from all ruling Chiefs who at once consented to their own States being included within the census operations.

148. In June 1890, Mr. J. A. Baines, the Census Commissioner, visited Abu, and in personal communication with him it was settled by the Agent to the Governor General to adopt two forms of Enumeration Schedule for Rajputana, one of 10 columns for Native States omitting the headings regarding civil condition, parent-tongue, education, and language, the other of 14 columns for Europeans, Eurasians, Cantonments, and Railways giving the same details as were to be collected in British India.

149. The forms of schedule prescribed by the Government of India for use throughout British India, together with the instructions to enumerators, are printed as Appendices A to E.

150. The form adopted for Native States in Rajputana is given below :—

House No.		Page No.
Serial number and name.	Male or Female.	Age.	RELIGION.		CASTE.		Birth-place, state, &c.	Occupation or means of subsistence.	Insane, blind, leper and eunuch.
			Main religion.	Sect of religion.	Main caste.	Sub-division of caste.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
				(This column is to be filled up only in the case of Mussalmans.)		The sub-divisions of Rajput caste only to be entered in this column.

151. The Rajputana schedules were printed in Nagri and Urdu in book-form in three sizes containing, respectively, 16, 32, and 48 schedules each. Each book contained also a copy of the instructions to enumerators, and of the sample schedule illustrating those instructions, as well as a form for the enumerator's abstract, and a block-list showing the serial number and description of each house to be censused, and the name of the head of the family (vide Appendices F to I).

152. Private schedules in English to be filled up by the house-holder himself were given only to members of the European and Eurasian community (For specimen schedule, vide Appendix E).

153. Special rules were published by the Census Commissioner regarding the census on the railway and in cantonments (For Railway Rules, vide Appendices J and K).

154. A copy of the instructions issued by the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway authorities to their staff for the enumeration of people travelling by rail and those living on railway premises, will be found printed at page (Appendices L and M).

155. The enumeration of all persons living within purely military limits of the stations of Mount Abu, Erinpura, Kherwara, and Kotra, was undertaken through their Commanding Officers. The census of the Deoli station and of the Merwara Battalion at Ajmere was carried on under the orders of the Commissioner, Ajmere-Merwara, and the totals incorporated with those of the District.

156. It was arranged in communication with the Agent to the Governor General, Central India, that the detached portions of the Tonk State lying within the limits of the Central India Agency, namely, Chabra, Parawa, and Sironj, should be enumerated as part of Central India, and the statistics embodied in the returns of that agency. Similarly the figures for the detached tracts of Central India within Rajputana, namely, Gangapur of Gwalior and Nandwas of Indore, were included in the Rajputana totals.

157. The enumeration arrangement for the detached Parganas of Tonk in Central India was undertaken by the authorities of that State. While the Political Agent, Western Malwa, was responsible for the census of the outlying portions of Gwalior and Indore in Meywar.

158. The Political Agent, Western Malwa, exercises criminal jurisdiction in certain cases over the Chowmehla district of Jhalawar, and for this reason he desired the inclusion of that district in Central India. After some correspondence with the Agent to the Governor General, Central India, and the Census Commissioner, it was arranged that the Chowmehla being an integral and not a detached portion of the Jhalawar State, the inhabitants of that district should, in accord with the principle of the census, be shown in the Rajputana Tables.

Enumeration.

159. The Sub-divisional Registers were completed between the end of June 1890 and the 5th February 1891, the first State to complete its Register was Jeypore, the rest followed in the order below:—

Kishengarh	.	.	.	.	.	.	4th July 1890.

160. The Register was not prepared in Sirohi and Jesalmir, and no mention is made of its preparation in Dungarpur.

161. The Circle lists were completed first in Kishengarh on the 4th July 1890 and were completed in the other States in the order following :—

Alwar	Middle of July 1890.
Shahpura	July 1890.
Jesalmir	3rd September 1890.
Partabgarh	27th " "
Tonk	30th " "

Meywar	Do.
Jhalawar	November.
Bharatpur	15th December 1890.
Banswara	5th February 1891.

The dates on which these lists were completed in the Jeypore, Sirohi, and Dungarpur States and the Lawa Thakurate have not been given.

162. In the Statement below (No. 56) is shown the number of Census areas and the strength of the Enumerating Agency by Divisions and in each territorial Unit.

The number of houses in each block for towns and villages separately has only been given in a few instances, and as a rule the figures appear to include unoccupied houses as well.

SOUTHERN DIVISION
RAJPUTANA

* NOTE.—The figures in antique in this column are those worked out by number of occupied houses, those in plate are taken from the Reports and would appear in most instances to refer to all houses unoccupied included.

163. Reckoning occupied houses only and taking Towns and Villages together, the blocks in the Southern Division were much larger than those in the other two, the average for the three being—

Southern Division	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	152 Houses.
Western „	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	66 „

The average for Rajputana is 68.

The supervisors' circles averaged in the—

Eastern Division	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	7 Blocks.
Southern „	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	13 „
Western „	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	22 „

and they varied in size from $2\frac{1}{2}$ blocks in Dholpur to 42 blocks in Marwar.

The superintendents' charges averaged 30 circles in the Western Division, 23 in the Eastern, and 11 in the Southern, being the largest in Jeypore, 106 circles.

164. With regard to the personnel of the Enumerating Agency employed, the information is as follows:—

Western Division.

165. Marwar.—The enumerators were selected from the general public and were mostly of the Mahajan class, they were chiefly unpaid.

The supervisors were drawn from the thanadars and writers in different sadur and district offices, but in addition to these 21 were specially employed and paid.

The charge superintendents were the Hakims of the districts.

Jesalmir.—The enumerators were mostly persons specially employed and paid, 63 only being unpaid.

Of the supervisors all but two, who were specially paid, were State District officials.

The one charge superintendent was Munshi Amir Uddin.

Bikanir.—Among the enumerators were village officials as also shop-keepers, Brahmins and school-pupils who were paid.

The unpaid Supervisors were subordinate officials, mukhtars, petition-writers, and servants of pattadars.

The District Nazims and the Munsif of Bikanir City acted as charge superintendents.

Eastern Division.

166. Jeypore.—Enumerators were selected from putwarris, customs durogahs, village teachers, and were unpaid.

Kanungoes, school masters in the higher grades, clerks and well-educated private persons were employed as unpaid supervisors.

The District Nazims were the charge superintendents.

Kishengarh.—Members of the Brahmin and Mahajan Communities acted for the most part as enumerators assisted by a few State servants.

The supervisors and charge superintendents were Raj officials.

Lawa.—It is not stated from what class the enumerators were obtained, the Supervising and Superintending Agency consisted of the munshi in charge of the affairs of the thakurate aided by an assistant specially appointed.

Alwar.—The enumerators who were unpaid consisted of putwarris, mutsaddis and school teachers, ex-students and sons of officials were also employed as enumerators and were paid at the rate of R6 per 100 houses returned.

The supervisors were kanungoes, tehsil clerks, and school teachers, and the tehsildars and Nimrara Estate Kamdar were the charge superintendents.

Bharatpur.—Putwarris, students, and the employés in the Courts and Revenue Department were the (unpaid) enumerators, tehsil and thana office clerks were the (unpaid) supervisors, and tehsildars the charge superintendents.

Dholpur.—The enumerators, who were not paid, were putwarris, Bannias, and Brahmins, the supervisors were State officials and the charge superintendents were the tehsildars.

Karauli.—The enumerators, some of whom were paid and were composed of putwarris, mohorirs, students, and candidates for employment.

Thanadars, writers in the tehsil and thana offices and clerks in the Courts were supervisors; the tehsildars were charge superintendents.

Tonk.—Enumerators, who were paid, were selected from private individuals, and were chiefly Brahmins, Mahajans, and Kayaths.

The supervisors were State servants, such as writers in offices and putwarris.

The charge superintendents were Mahomedan officials.

Bundi.—Mahajans and Brahmins were employed as enumerators, they were paid.

The putwarris were appointed supervisors, and the talukadars (district officers) were the charge superintendents.

Shahpura.—The enumerators were Mahajans, Brahmins, and other private persons of sufficient intelligence and education; they were paid.

Supervisors were chosen from the officials and tehsildars were the charge superintendents.

Kotah.—The putwarris were the enumerators in the districts; at Kotah paid clerks were employed.

The supervisors were peshkars, kanungoes, thanadars, and Forest Inspectors.

The nazims, kamdars of the Kotri Estates, and President of the Kotah Municipal Committee were the charge superintendents.

Jhalawar.—The enumerators were putwarris and private persons of education who were paid by the Darbar.

Supervisors were the officials of the tehsils, thanas, and Customs Department, also school masters.

The tehsildars and Presidents of the Municipal Committees of the two towns were the charge superintendents.

Southern Division.

167. Pertabgarh.—Supervisors and enumerators were drawn from the Kayath, Rajput, Bannia, and Mussalman classes; paid.

Banswara.—Supervisors and enumerators were drawn from the Kayath, Bannia, Brahmin, Rajput, and Mussalman classes; paid.

Dungarpur.—Supervisors and enumerators were engaged in Dungarpur, and from Gujrat and Banswara (the classes drawn from are not stated). It is not said that they were paid.

Meywar.—Of the total agency employed, 1,710 were State officials and the remaining 2,280 were persons specially engaged and paid.

Sirohi.—The enumerators, who were unpaid, were men of position, mahajan officials, and naib-tehsildars. The tehsildars were the supervisors.

168. It will be noticed that some States added to their supervising staff by appointing inspectors in addition; in others, such as Alwar and Kotah, the enumerating staff was strengthened at the final census.

169. The only States which mention difficulty in procuring enumerators are Marwar and Bikanir, but I expect the difficulty of obtaining the services of sufficiently intelligent and educated persons for that duty was felt elsewhere, and particularly in the Southern Division.

170. Most of the States arranged for the education of their enumerating and supervising staff by instruction at Head Quarters and the circulation of translations of all orders received from the Census Commissioner; Marwar was particularly active, a special class was formed at Jodhpur and the Darbar printed and distributed freely translations of epitomes of the rules and a catechism for the guidance of enumerators and others.

House Numbering.

171. The starting of house numbering occupied from early in July 1890 to the middle of December of that year, the first to begin was Kotah and the last Dungarpur. The work was completed between July 1890 and the end of January 1891 in the following order:—

Shahpura	July 1890.
Lawa	End of September 1890.
Kotah	Ditto.
Jhalawar	Ditto.
Kishengarh	8th October 1890.
Alwar	15th Ditto.
Dholpur	End of October 1890.
Marwar	Ditto.
Bundi	Ditto.
Jeypore	November 1890.
Tonk	Ditto.
Bharatpur	15th December 1890.
Jesalmir	22nd Ditto.
Karauli	End of December 1890.
Partabgarh	Ditto.
Meywar	Ditto.
Sirohi	Ditto.
Bikanir	January 1891.
Dungarpur	18th January 1891.
Banswara	End of January 1891.

172. A house was taken to mean the dwelling place of one or more families having a separate independent entrance from the public way, as defined in the Census Commissioner's Circular No. $\frac{35}{1890}$ of the 8th April 1890, but where necessary the independent dwellings within such houses were indicated by subsidiary numbers below the main number, as for instance in the case of four such dwellings within a census house, No. 250, when the numbering would be $\frac{250}{1}, \frac{250}{2}, \frac{250}{3}, \frac{250}{4}$.

Meywar reports that a house was taken to be the dwelling place of a family having a separate entrance and cooking place, but judging from the results of the house density it would appear Meywar has, like all the other units, accepted in practice the definition of a house above referred to.

173. The mode of numbering the houses was, speaking generally, serial by blocks, the numbers being marked at some convenient and protected part of the entrance. The block number was marked above and the house number below in red and black paint.

In some cases tin labels were used in the towns and in others, in out of the way parts, where permanent dwellings are unknown, the numbers were painted on pieces of wood or stone and left in charge of the occupants who took every care of them.

Preliminary Record.

174. As a rule the preliminary record was made in the one and half or two months commencing from the end of December 1890 and continuing to the 3rd week of February 1891, but there were exceptions.

It took six months in Banswara, in Marwar and Sirohi it took five months and in Jesalmir it took one month and ten days from the 25th December 1890 to the 4th February 1891. It was taken very early in Shahpura, i.e., during August and the first-half of September 1890.

175. Regarding the extent of check and test of the preliminary record, the reports state as follows:—

Marwar.—Supervisors and inspectors tested 75 per cent. of the entries, and the remaining 25 were looked at by the Hakims; the entries were further tested by the provincial superintendent and his deputy.

Jesalmir.—The entries were checked by the supervisors, and a percentage was tested at the Sadar.

Bikanir.—The supervisors, tehsildars, charge superintendent, and the provincial superintendent all tested the entries, which were further tested by the Political Agent.

Jeynpore.—During February the supervisors, tehsildars, nazims and municipal authorities checked the entries, they were also tested by the inspectors and one of the State superintendents.

Alwar.—The entries were checked by the supervisors, inspectors, charge superintendents, the Superintendent of Census, and the Political Agent.

Bharatpur.—For the two days succeeding the completion of the preliminary record, the entries were tested.

Dholpur.—The entries were checked by the supervisors and charge superintendent.

Karauli.—After the completion of the record the entries were tested during five days.

Tonk.—The entries were tested by supervisors and charge superintendents.

Bundi.—The preliminary record entries were tested by the Political Agent on tour.

Shahpura.—The preliminary record entries were tested from the 15th September to the 31st October by tehsildars and supervisors.

Kotah.—The entries were checked by supervisors, special inspectors, and the Superintendent of Census.

Jhalawar.—Twenty-five per cent. of the entries were tested.

Pertabgarh.—One month was occupied in testing the entries.

Banswara.—The entries were tested during three months.

Meywar.—Supervisors and inspectors tested the entries.

Lawa, Dungarpur and Sirohi have not reported on the extent of check and test.

176. Generally satisfaction is expressed at the degree of accuracy found in the preliminary record entries, mistakes in any number were almost confined to the age-periods.

177. Concerning the difficulties met with in recording schedule entries, the reports state as follows:—

Marwar.—The entries of race and clan gave the most trouble.

Jeynpore.—Enumerators could not ascertain the fathers' name of the members of certain religious orders, eunuchs, and prostitutes. Some Rajputs declined to give the ages of the females of their families.

The enumerators found it no easy matter to define a Hindu. Converts to Islam were found very ignorant regarding their sect. Great ignorance was often displayed as to knowledge of birth-place.

Kishengarh.—Difficulties were encountered, in recording birth-places owing to ignorance of geography on part of the people and enumerators, in recording the dependence on occupations, in obtaining the ages of women and ignorant folk, and in getting information about leprous members of a family.

Alwar.—Age entries often gave trouble. Mahomedan converts were found ignorant of their sect, some desired to be entered by the names of the Rajput clans they originally belonged to. Some persons desired to be entered in the occupations of their castes and not the occupations they were following at the time.

Bharatpur.—There was difficulty in obtaining the names of females.

Dholpur.—As above.

Karauli.—The same.

Kotah.—The age returns gave trouble.

Jhalawar.—There were difficulties as regards age, ascertaining the sect of the lower order, of Mussalmans, and ascertaining the birth-places of those born at a distance.

The other States do not report any difficulties.

178. Many of the Durbars, in order to keep the preliminary record neat and clear, had forms printed locally on which the entries were first made and from them copied into the printed enumerators' books received from the Government Press.

Final Census.

179. Throughout Rajputana, with the exception of Banswara where some Bhils were enumerated on the 28th February, the Final Census was taken during the night of the 27th February 1891, liberal arrangements were made to supply the enumerators with torches, conveyance where required, and sepoy to assist them in their work.

180. The State totals were telegraphed from the different places to the Census Commissioner at Simla and the 1st Assistant to the Agent to the Governor General at Abu on the dates given below:—

Alwar.—3rd March, received from the Durbar on the evening of the 2nd.

Kishengarh.—5th March.

Sirohi and Marwar.—7th March, totals received on the 6th.

Jesalmir.—10th March.

Bikanir.—11th March, a revised total was sent on the 23rd March.

Jhalawar.—11th March.

Lawa.—11th March.

Dungarpur.—14th March.

Meywar.—16th March.

Pertabgarh.—31st March.

Banswara.—3rd April.

181. Only in a few places was it necessary to make special arrangements for the numbering of persons attending fairs; for such and for travellers, marriage parties, and the houseless poor, the special measures taken were to employ watchers during the day or the evening of the 27th February 1891 to give information of their presence or to bring them to the nearest enumerator. After ascertaining they had not already been enumerated elsewhere they were then either enumerated by special enumerators in extra blocks which were attached to the nearest block or else enumerated on the spot where found by the enumerator of the block they happened to be in, who added their names to his block. In all cases those on the move were given tickets to ensure their not being enumerated twice.

182. The exceptional tracts in which the standard instructions were not carried out were the wild country inhabited by the Bhils of Meywar, Dungarpur, and Kushalgarh of Banswara, and the Grassias of Sirohi, in these parts an estimate of the population was made as follows:—

Meywar.—The huts of the Bhils were quietly counted in each district and four persons allowed per hut—two males and two females.

Dungarpur.—No fresh estimate was even made, the figures for 1881 arrived at by counting huts and allowing two males and two females per hut, were accepted.

Kushalgarh.—The Bhils were reckoned at four per hut in each village, and a rough calculation made of the number of males and females.

Grassias of Sirohi.—Their huts were counted by villages and two males and two females allowed per hut, this having been found the average number of inhabitants per hut in the surrounding enumerated villages.

General Remarks.

183. On the subject of the attitude of the people towards the Census operations and the extent to which these operations were understood or misapprehended, an epitome of the remarks made in the various reports is given below:—

Marwar.—The people were favourably disposed owing to action of His Highness the Maharajah and his brother, Maharaj Sir Partab Singh, K.C.S.I., who set an example by having themselves and their household enumerated first of all.

At one time an idea got abroad among the Bhils and Grassias, that men were wanted for foreign service and some alarm was created by the discovery of several survey chains lying on the platform of a railway station which were mistaken for fetters.

Jesalmir.—The attitude of the people was admirable.

Bikanir.—The object of the Census was understood by the more intelligent, the rest accepted it as the pleasure of the Government, only a few considered it as the prelude to a new tax or a call for fighting men.

Jeypore.—The educated watched the operations with interest, the ignorant with indifference. Some asked the objects of it, all officials had strict injunctions to carefully explain the objects of the Census which had a good effect.

Kishengarh.—When house numbering commenced some thought it the preliminary to the imposition of a house-tax but that idea soon passed away.

Lawa.—The people were indifferent in their attitude.

Alwar.—Every endeavour was made to avoid misapprehensions regarding the Census operations, and it was successful, the people generally watched the operations with amused curiosity.

Bharatpur.—

Dholpur.—

Karauli.—

} The people had no misapprehensions.

Tonk.—There were no misapprehensions prevalent among the people.

Bundi.—The people viewed the operations with unconcern.

Shahpura.—The people showed indifference to the Census operations.

Kotah.—Very few instances in which any opposition was shown to the Census operations.

Jhalawar.—No objections were raised and no misapprehensions of the objects of the Census were apparent.

Pertabgarh.—The Bhils were afraid of the Census operations.

Banswara.—Bhils had an idea that a propitiatory sacrifice or a levy of young men was intended.

Dungarpur.—The ignorant thought that Government was in search of young men for engagement in a foreign war.

Meywar.—The objects were misunderstood among the ruder classes, and rumours of all kinds were prevalent. Some thought that they would be seized and thrown as a propitiatory sacrifice into the "Connaught bund" which is being constructed at Oodeypore, while others gave out that the object of the Census was to raise new taxes, and to send the adult males to some war with foreign countries.

Sirohi.—The Jaghirdars gave due assistance in the operations and the attitude of the people was good with the exception of the Grassias of the Bhakher (hilly tracts) who became impressed by the attitude of opposition assumed by their neighbours in Meywar and the Mahikanta.

184. It will be seen from the above resumé, that as regards the people generally, misapprehensions were few and that the efforts made by the authorities in the States to allay misgivings were, as a rule, entirely successful, the only exception being, that which has already been referred to, namely, the inhabitants of the wild country in the south-east of Rajputana which is the home of the Bhils and Grassias.

185. In 1881 these same people showed so strong a repugnance to being counted that they were left unenumerated: not only so, but in the case of the Meywar, the Durbar in order to allay the excitement aroused among them, promised "they should never suffer by the counting of men and houses."

186. This intense dislike of the Meywar Bhils, and their neighbours to being enumerated in any form which appears to be based on a suspicious fear of the ulterior objects of enumeration, has not lessened with the lapse of time, and when the question of enumeration was mooted in 1890, the head men among the Meywar Bhils at once gave it to be understood that their aversion to such a proceeding was undiminished and drew attention to the above-mentioned stipulation of 1881, which they interpreted as an undertaking on the part of the Durbar that enumeration of the Bhils was never to be made. As the local authorities found themselves unable to overcome the dislike or allay the fears of the Bhils it was not deemed expedient to press the point and the Bhils, as already stated, were left unenumerated.

Abstraction

187. The operations, subsequent to the enumeration, consisted in abstracting and tabulating figures from each enumeration book on working sheets and on registers. In Rajputana these were conducted by the Native States themselves under the guidance of Political Officers. The intended procedure was fully understood by the Durbars.

The returns for the Cantonments of Erinpura, Kherwara, Kotra, and Abu sanitarium, and for Rajputana-Malwa Railway within Rajputana, and for European and Eurasian residents in Rajputana, were abstracted and tabulated by the Census Superintendent at Ajmere. The statistics appertaining to the Indian Midland Railway at Dholpur were dealt with at Allahabad. The tabulated figures were sent to Abu for compilation with those for Rajputana.

188. For the abstraction of the Rajputana schedules five working or abstraction sheets were prescribed.

They were—

|-----------------------------------|--------------------------|
| (i) Sex, age, religion. | (iii) Birth-place, sex. |
| (ii) Religion, caste, sex. | (iv) Occupation and sex. |
| (v) Age, sex, caste, infirmities. | |

189. The abstracting establishments at the different centres were divided into gangs, each gang working at one of the above-mentioned five sheets. In the case of sheets III, IV and V, each man worked singly, but for sheets I and II it was found advisable to work in pairs, one dictating from the schedules, the other abstracting on the working sheets.

190. From the progress reports received from time to time from the Durbars, through the respective Political Officers, it would appear that, generally speaking, the work of abstraction began early in March and was finished by the end of August 1891. In some cases the work was expeditiously done, notably in Marwar, Jeypore, and Alwar.

Tabulation.

191. As soon as the test of re-abstraction was over the tabulation operations were taken in hand. The work in connection with this branch consisted of the transfer of totals contained in the five working sheets to the set of tabulation registers which were prepared separately for each sub-division of the State. The whole series of the registers were stitched together in separate books with a sufficient number of inner sheets where necessary.

192. The strength of the tabulating staff in each State depended upon the assistance and supervision available. In Jeypore the work was conducted by a staff of nearly 200 persons under five Room Inspectors and a Superintendent. In Marwar, besides the Superintendent and the permanent staff, the establishment was composed of—

TOTAL	142

193. The minimum establishment recommended per million persons was as under:—

5 Room Inspectors for four months.	12 Tabulators for three months.
48 Abstractors for four months.	2 Totallers for three months.

194. The work of tabulation generally occupied a period of over five months. In some States it was carried on pari passu with the work of re-abstraction.

Office Arrangements for Abstraction and Tabulation.

195. In most of the States the arrangement for the office-room, the records, and the superintendence of the abstraction and tabulation, was completed some time in March 1891. Each State framed its own rules of office procedure and devised its own method of test and check based on Census Commissioner's Circular No. ^{M.}₁₈₉₀, dated 9th October 1890, dealing with British territory. Copies of such rules were freely circulated by the States for the information and guidance of their abstracting and tabulating staff. The main provisions of these instructions were that as far as possible the abstracting centres should be divided into four Departments, viz.—

- | | |
|----------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| (i) The Record Department. | (iii) The Tabulation Department. |
| (ii) The Abstraction Department. | (iv) The Checking Department. |

The enumeration books, when received at the abstracting centres, should be in the custody of Record Department, which should keep an account of the enumeration books issued daily for abstraction. Before the books are transferred to the abstracting establishment, special care should be taken to withdraw from each book the enumerator's abstract which should be kept in the safe custody of the Record Department. Each branch should work in a separate room and hold no communication with those engaged on other abstraction sheets.

Compilation.

196. When all the Sub-Divisions of a State were tabulated in the registers, their totals were added together and brought on to compilation sheets.

197. In the compilation of abstraction sheet No. I, the under-mentioned age-periods were introduced :—

(1, 2, 3, 4), (5-9), (10-14), (15-19), (20-24), (25-29), (30-34), (35-39), (40-44), (45-49), (50-54), (55-59), (60 and over).

198. As a rule compilation was undertaken at the Residency and Agency Offices by the selected men from the Durbar and under the supervision of Political Officers.

The compiled totals for each State as certified for each table were communicated by the States through Political Officers simultaneously to the 1st Assistant to the Agent to the Governor General, Rajputana, and to the Census Commissioner, India.

199. The compilation of the returns into a Rajputana total was undertaken at the Central Compiling Office at Abu by a small staff as noted below :—

- (i) A clerk of the office of the Agent to the Governor General.
- (ii) A totaller on ₹35 per mensem from 8th October 1891 to July 1892.
- (iii) A poster on ₹30 per mensem from 10th February to 15th May 1892.

The work was commenced in September 1891, and the last form, prescribed by the Government of India, was concluded and despatched to the Census Commissioner on the 11th April 1892; but the preparation of the Census Report and Provincial Tables occupied the compiling staff up to the end of July 1892.

200. The work of compiling was somewhat delayed by the want of accurate and complete statistics from some of the States. The submission of the returns of a few States was also very irregular.

201. Owing to the general backwardness of Banswara and Pertabgarh and the lack of competent officials it was with great difficulty that the Assistant Political Agent was able to collect the necessary data for Tables I to XVA. The caste and occupation returns for these States have not been prepared.

202. At the Central Compiling Office at Abu, the statistics sent up by the States were checked and classified according to the prescribed arrangement, and the whole reduced to the form in which they are now presented in the final tables twenty-three in number.

203. In addition to the Imperial forms prescribed by the Government of India, the following returns have been prepared for provincial use giving district details and will be found printed in Part II of the Volume.

- I. General statement of area, houses, and population by pargannahs or other administrative divisions.
- II. Variation in the population since the Census of 1891 by pargannahs or other administrative divisions.
- III. Statement showing the distribution of the population according to religion by pargannahs or other administrative divisions.
- IV. Statement of population for towns with more than 5,000 inhabitants by political charges.
- V. Statement showing Mussalmans by sects and by pargannahs or other administrative divisions.
- VI. Statement showing the sub-divisions of Rajputs by territorial units.
- VII. Statement showing the number of eunuchs by caste and age in two parts and for territorial units.
- VIII. Statement showing the distribution of Christians in Rajputana by race and for territorial units.

Printing and Supply of Forms.

204. The printing of the following forms was done at Calcutta by the Superintendent of Government Printing, Bengal :—

- (i) English, Nagri, and Urdu enumeration books containing 16, 32 and 48 schedules respectively.
- (ii) Abstraction sheets (I to V) in English, Nagri, and Urdu.
- (iii) Tabulation register forms in English, Nagri, and Urdu.
- (iv) Compilation sheets in English.

205. Of these the only one of which there remained any considerable balance unused, was No. ii, of which the marginally noted number was left over, the first indents having been exaggerated. These surplus forms were subsequently sold by the Press as waste paper and the amount realized from the sale credited to the Census account.

The nominal rate of the supply of the abstraction sheets was three sets of five sheets for every two enumeration books actually used.

206. The standard size of the registers or tabulation forms was that of the enumeration schedule. Each register was cross-ruled uniformly 12 lines per page and contained from 3 to 15 forms. On an average one complete set of registers was considered sufficient for every 120 enumeration books. In some instances, this supply of the forms, however, fell short of actual requirements, and as it was too late to indent for another supply from the Government Press, the Durbars were asked to make their own arrangements which they did.

207. The number of enumeration books issued from the Press and actually used in the enumeration is shown in Statement No. 57.

208. Generally speaking, no delay or difficulty was experienced in the distribution of enumeration books and forms to the States.

NOTE.—Of the 80,382 books issued, 69,932 books and 200,000 schedule leaves were supplied by the Superintendent, Government Printing, Bengal, Calcutta.

(a) 7,218 enumeration books were made locally out of the 200,000 schedule leaves supplied by Government to the Marwar, Sirohi, and Jesalmir Durbars.

(b) Include a few copies printed locally by the Jeypore, Tonk, and Bundi Durbars.

(c) 168 books of 8 pages each were printed locally by the Jhalawar Durbar.

209. The printing of the report and the tables was undertaken by the Superintendent, Government Printing, India, who has rendered every assistance in furthering the progress of the work through the Press.

The Cost of the Census.

210. A Statement (No. 58) is appended showing the details of the cost of the Census in Rajputana, separating that portion which was borne by the Imperial Government, from the details of expenditure given as affecting Native States.

NOTE.—1892-93 account not yet finally adjusted.

212. It was considered inexpedient to recover from any of the Native States in Rajputana the cost of Census paper and forms supplied to them by the Superintendent, Government Printing, Bengal.

213. Taken altogether the Census of 11,973,788† persons has been taken at a total cost of ₹1,51,201-5-10, which gives a rate of 2½ pies a head, or ₹12·63 per 1,000 persons.

214. In 1881‡ the actual expenditure incurred in connection with Census operations amounted to ₹87,241-7-8. Of this sum ₹7,772-7-1 were defrayed by British Government. The cause of the extra expenditure incurred at the Census of 1891 was the much greater details furnished in the returns prescribed by the Census Commissioner.

† Excluding—

(a) Persons enumerated on the British Schedule Form abstracted and tabulated at Ajmere = 16,716

(b) Unenumerated Bhils and Grassias = 229,839

‡ The 1881 population = 9,959,012 persons. Total charge per 1,000 persons in 1881 = ₹8·76.

Concluding Remarks.

215. The Census operations were conducted in the Rajputana units by the under-mentioned superintendents :—

NAMES OF SUPERINTENDENTS.		States.
1	Lala Tribhowan Lall	Meywar.
2	Fouzdar Munshi Govind Saran, M. A.	Jeypore.
3	Babu Syam Sundar Lal, B. A.	Kishengarh.
4	Rai Bahadur Har Dyal Singh	Marwar.
5	Munshi Amiruddin	Jesalmir.
6	Mr. Sadasio Ram	Sirohi.
7	Sahibzada Abdul Rahim Khan	Tonk.
8	Munshi Bhola Nath	Shahpura.
9	Mr. Kunj Behari Lall	Alwar.
10	Munshi Sohan Lall	Bikanir.
11	Chobe Raghunath Dass	Kotah.
12	Lala Jawala Sahi	Jhalawar.
13	Lala Mukand Behari Lall	Bundi.
14	Rai Bahadur Bishen Sarup	Dholpur.

The names of the Superintendents for Bharatpur, Karauli, Banswara, Durgapur, and Pertabgarh have not been forwarded. The Political officers have written favourably of all the 14 Superintendents whose names have been given above, but special praise has been bestowed on the Superintendents of the following States :—

Meywar.	Alwar.
Jeypore.	Bikanir.
Kishengarh.	Kotah.
Marwar.	Jhalawar.

The several Durbars gave an earnest of their interest in the census by appointing as Superintendents the best men they possessed for the purpose, and some of them were fortunate in possessing officials who had gained special experience, such as the Superintendents of Marwar, Jeypore, Alwar, Kotah, and Jhalawar.

216. Many of the Census Superintendents carried on the operations in addition to their ordinary duties but as a rule arrangements were made to partially relieve them of the latter.

217. Political officers and their office establishments who supervised these Census operations and carried out the compilation of the figures for the several units within their charges, in addition to their current duties, performed this extra work readily and well.

218. The heavy and continuous work at the Head Quarters of the Rajputana Agency was under the immediate direction of the 1st Assistant to the Agent to the Governor General, Lieutenant K. D. Erskine, who was at times assisted by Lieutenant Impey, that this work was carried out in no perfunctory manner the Census Commissioner is aware of from the general correctness of the Rajputana Tables. It is very creditable to Mr. Erskine's zeal and capacity for business that he should have, under the orders of the Agent to the Governor General, thus well directed the Census of the Province while he had his own important and arduous duties to attend to.

Mr. Dhanjishah Dinshah, a clerk of the Rajputana Agency Office, has been Census Clerk from first to last. Lieutenant Erskine has recorded the high opinion he entertained of him an opinion in which I fully agree, for I have found him experienced, very industrious, dependable, and a clever reckoner.

219. Acknowledgments are due to the Map Branch of the Surveyor General's Office for the promptness and thoroughness with which requisitions have been met, and I would thank the Census Commissioner and the Agent to the Governor General for the consideration and support received.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ENUMERATORS.

(For vernacular translation.)

A.—THE FIRST ROUND.—(Preliminary Record.)

1. Beginning from the of 1891 you will visit every house in your block to which a separate number has been affixed, in the order in which they are entered in the list in your book, and enter in the schedules in that book every person residing in those houses in the manner prescribed below.

2. You must use black ink, and write very clearly in the character you know best.

3. You must take a fresh page for each house. If there are more than eight persons in a house, you should continue the entries for that house on the next page, repeating at the top of that page the number of the house in question, with the word "continued" after it in brackets. You must never begin the entries for a fresh house in the middle of a page, but should leave the unused lines blank.

4. If the entry for any person in any of the columns of the schedule be the same as that for the person entered on the line above, you must repeat the entry and never write the word "ditto" or make dots.

5. If one of the houses on the list be found unoccupied, you should write the word "empty" after the number of that house on the top of the form.

6. You are to enter all persons who ordinarily live and take their meals from the house, even though any of them may be at the time of your visit absent for a short time at the bazaar, town, watching crops, fishery (*or even for a few days at a wedding or on a pilgrimage, provided they are to be back at the house before the 26th February). After the residents you should enter the visitors, if any, stopping in the house (but not such as are only there for a day or two, as for a wedding, etc., and will not remain there till the 26th February).^{*} In dharmshalas, serais or temples, you should enter on this occasion only those who usually live there and not travellers, etc., stopping only a day or a night or so in the building.

7. Before beginning to make these entries you must read carefully the rules for filling up each column which are printed on the next page and also the specimen schedule on the page opposite those rules.

8. You should point out to the supervisor entries about which you are in doubt, and receive his instructions. You must have completed all the entries in your block by the of 1891.

B.—THE SECOND ROUND.—(Final Record.)

9. At nightfall on the 26th February 1891, you will take this book as already filled in and again visit every house in your block in order.

10. You must summon the chief member of each family residing in the house, and read over to him the entries made for his family in the schedule. You will strike out the entries for persons who are not present, and fill up the form for any person now in the house who was not there when the first visit was made, such as guests, infants newly born, and others. You are to consider as present all living in or taking their meals from the house, even though any of them may be out fishing or watching in the fields or at a shop, etc., for the night.

11. You must enter the word "visitor" in column 1 after the names of all who are only in the house for a few days and do not ordinarily reside there.*

* Optional with Local Governments and Administrations.

† The bracketted sentences do not apply to Bengal.

12. If there be no room left on the schedule for the fresh entries above-mentioned, you must take a fresh page at the end of your book, and enter on it the house number with the word "continued" after it, as prescribed in paragraph 3 above.

13. Before you start on your round you must see that you are yourself enumerated in the house where you are stopping.

14. You must make no alteration whatever in any entry against the name of any person unless you have to strike out the entries altogether, because he or she is no longer present. When you strike out a person you must draw the line completely through all the entries following that person's name and not merely through column 1.

15. You must use red ink only for entries and erasures made on the round on the 26th February.

16. Whilst going on this round you must visit every house marked "empty" in your book to see whether any person is now living there.

17. After† visiting as above all the dwelling-houses, you must go to the dharmshalas, serais, encampments and landing-places, where travellers rest for the night, and enter all particulars in the schedules for the wayfarers, boatmen, pilgrims, etc., you may find there, and strike out the entries already made against persons who are not now present. You should ascertain from the village watchmen if any wandering gang, etc., has come to pitch in your block, and if there be any such you should go and enumerate it as above prescribed for other persons.

18. If any householder in your block has been given a separate schedule, you should collect it on the morning of the 27th February, and after seeing that the rules have been complied with in filling up the columns, you should stitch or pin it into your book next to the last schedule filled up by you.

19. After your book has been inspected by the supervisor you will prepare the short abstract printed on the back of the specimen schedule in it, as directed by the supervisor, and he will not take charge of your book until he has certified it to be correct.

20. According to the Census Act every person is legally bound to furnish you with such information as is necessary for filling up the schedule; but you are forbidden to ask for any information not required for the purposes of the census, as, for instance, the amount of any person's income. Any enumerator detected in extorting money on any pretext connected with the census renders himself liable to punishment under the Census Act or the Penal Code.

C.—RULES FOR FILLING UP THE SCHEDULE.

RULE 1.—Column 1 (serial number and name).—Enter first the chief resident member of the family, whether male or female, then the other members of the family and their resident servants, if any, and lastly, visitors or temporary residents *after whose name write a (V) in brackets for visitor. If there be any objection made to giving the name of a female, write the word "female" in this column (adding her relationship to some member of the household) and filling up the rest of the columns for her as usual.

If an infant has not yet been named, enter the word "infant." The enumerator is not to insist upon any female giving her own or her husband's name. The serial number must not be added till the final record.

RULE 2.—Column 2 (Religion).—Enter here the religion which each person returns—

As Hindu, Mussalman, Jain, Christian, Parsi. Forest tribes, who are not Hindus, Mussalmans, etc., should have the name of their tribe entered in this column, as Bhil, Gond, Garo, etc.; low castes, as Chamar, Dom, Paria, Mahar, etc., should be entered by the religion which they themselves return, and no dispute about it is to be raised.

RULE 3.—Column 3 (Sect of religion).—Enter the sect of religion followed by each person as they return it—

As Smārth, Vaishnav, Walabācharya, Lingaiat, etc., for Hindus; Sunni, Sih, etc., for Mussalmans and for Christians enter whether Church of England, Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Baptist, Methodist Episcopalian, etc. If the sect cannot be stated, enter "not returned" in this column, but do not leave it blank.

* Optional with Local Governments and Administrations.

† In Madras and Mysore substitute the word "before."

RULE 4.—Column 4 (Caste, etc.).—Enter the caste of Hindus and Jains, and the tribes of those who have not castes, and the races of Christians, Buddhists, etc.—

As Brahman, Rājput, Bania, Kunbi for Hindus; Pathān, Moghal, etc., for Musalmans; Eurasian or Native Christians for Christians. Do not enter vague terms, such as Hindustani, Marwari, Punjabi, etc.

RULE 5.—Column 5 (Sub-division of caste, etc.).—If the caste has been entered in column 4, enter here the sub-division, as Kanaujia or Nagar of Brahmans, Oswal of Banias, etc. If tribes enter the clan; if race, enter the tribe or nationality.

Some races or castes may not return sub-divisions, and in their case the entry in column 4 should be repeated, but this column must not be left blank. Native Christians, for instance, may be returned as Portuguese, East Indian, Madras, etc., or by their caste, if recognised; Karens as Sgau, etc., Bhils as Tadwi, Pawada, etc.; Gonds as Raj, etc.

RULE 6.—Column 6 (Male or female).—Enter here each person as either male or female, even though you have written the word “female” in column 1 already.

RULE 7.—Column 7 (Age).—Enter the number of years each person has completed.* For infants less than one year old, enter the word “infants.”

If a person cannot state his or her age exactly, the enumerator should ask the relations, or refer to some well-known event of local importance, or if the person be present, make a guess at the age from the appearance. He must never insist on seeing any female who is not voluntarily produced before him.

RULE 8.—Column 8 (Marriage, etc.).—Enter each person whether infant, child or grown up as either married, unmarried or widowed. This column must not be left blank for any one of whatever age.

Children who have been married should be entered as married even though they may not have begun to actually live with their wives or husbands. Persons who have been married, but have no wife or husband living should be entered as widowed. The enumerator must accept the statement made by the person, or, in the case of children, by their relatives.

RULE 9.—Column 9 (Parent-tongue).—Enter the language which each person returns as ordinarily spoken in the household of that person's parents.

RULE 10.—Column 10 (Birth-place).—Enter the district and state in which each person was born, and if the person be not born in the province, add the name of the province to the district of birth.

If the person be born out of India, enter the country, as China, Kabul, Ceylon. The names of villages, tehsils, etc., are not to be given.

RULE 11.—Column 11 (Occupation or means of subsistence).—[Read this rule very carefully, and ask the supervisor about all cases which seem doubtful to you.]—Enter here the exact occupation or means of livelihood of all males and females who do work or live on private property, such as house-rent, pension, etc. In the case of children and women who do no work, enter the occupation of the head of their family, or of the person who supports them, adding the word “dependent,” but do not leave this column unfilled for any one, even an infant. If a person have two or more occupations, enter only the chief one, except when a person owns or cultivates land in addition to another occupation, when both should be entered.

No vague terms should be used, such as “service,” “Government service,” “shopkeeping,” “writing,” or “labour,” etc.; but the exact service, the goods sold, the class of writing or labour must be stated. When a person's occupation is connected with agriculture, it should be stated whether the land is cultivated in person or all let to tenants; if he be an agricultural labourer, it should be stated whether he be engaged by the month or year, or is a daily field-labourer. Women who earn money by occupations independent of their husbands, such as selling firewood, cowdung cakes, grass, or by rice-pounding, weaving or doing house-work for wages, should be shown under those occupations. If a person makes the articles he sells, he should be entered as “maker and seller” of them. If a person lives on alms, it should be stated whether he is a religious mendicant or an ordinary beggar. When a person is in Government, Railway, or Municipal service the special service should be entered first; and the word Government or Municipal, etc., after as clerk—Government, sweeper—Municipal, labourer—Railway.

If a person be temporarily out of employ, enter the last or ordinary occupation.

RULE 12.—Column 12 (Instruction).—Enter in this column against each person, whether grown up, child or infant, either learning, literate, or illiterate. Enter all those as learning who are under instruction, either at home or at school or college.† Enter as literate, those who are able to both read and write any language, but are not under instruction as above. Enter as illiterate those who are not under instruction, and who do not know how to both read and write, or who can read but not write or can sign their own name but not read.

* In the Punjab enter the current year of age.

† For the Punjab “and who are learning to read and write, or can already do so,” can be added.

RULE 13.—Column 13 (Language known by literate).—Enter here the language which those shown as literate in column 12 can both read and write, and if a person knows how to read and write English, as well as a vernacular, enter “English” also.

This column is to be left blank for those shown in column 12 as learning or illiterate, and except when English is known, only one language should be entered, that best known.

RULE 14.—Column 14 (Infirmities).—If any person be blind of both eyes, or deaf and dumb from birth, or insane, or suffering from corrosive leprosy, enter the name of the infirmity in this column.

Do not enter those blind of one eye only, or who have become deaf and dumb after birth, or who are suffering from white leprosy only.

Instructions.—The schedule on the next page is to be filled up under the Census Act by the head occupant of the house or tenement, for all Europeans and Eurasians stopping in the house or tenement on the night of the 26th February 1891, counting also as present persons ordinarily residing in the house but absent for a few hours on duty (except with a running train) and still taking their meals from the house. The head occupant aforesaid should deliver or have delivered the schedule, duly filled up and signed, to the Enumerator who will call for it on the morning of the 27th February. Every facility and aid is requested for the Enumerator, who will probably make two visits to take the Census of the native servants and their families residing on the premises. Before filling up the schedule, the instructions on the last page of this form should be carefully read.

Instructions for filling up the Schedule.

GENERAL.—Enter first the head of the family resident in the house on the night of the census, then the rest of the members of the family, and lastly, visitors stopping in the house that night. The last column should be filled in only in case of a person afflicted with one of the four infirmities specified in the instructions below, and column 13 only for such as are shown as "Literate" in column 12; but in every one of the other columns an entry should be made against the name of each person, no blanks being left. General and vague terms for sect and occupation should not be used. The word "ditto" should not be used, but each entry made in full.

Column 1.—Enter the names in order, as prescribed above.

Column 2.—(Religion).—Enter the main religion, as shown in the specimen schedule on the first page of this form.

Column 3.—(Religious denomination).—Enter the sect or denomination, but do not use general terms, such as "Protestant," "Episcopalian," etc. If no sect be returned, enter the word "Unsectarian."

Column 4.—(Race).—Enter European (including Australian, Canadian, American, etc.), Eurasian, Armenian, etc.

Column 5.—(Nationality).—Enter the nationality to which the person considers himself or herself to belong.

Column 6.—(Sex).—Enter whether male or female.

Column 7.—(Age).—Enter the age last birthday; and against children of less than a year old, write "Infant."

Column 8.—(Civil condition).—Show whether each person, infant or grown up, is married, unmarried or widowed. Persons who have been married, but have no wife or husband living, should be shown as "widowed."

Column 9.—(Parent-tongue).—Enter the language ordinarily spoken in the household of the parents.

Column 10.—(Birth-place).—If born in India give the district and province; if born out of India the country, but do not enter the names of countries, towns or villages, except in the case of London, or of Calcutta, or Bombay, Madras, or Rangoon.

Column 11.—(Occupation, etc).—Enter the occupation of all who do work of any sort, and the source of income of such as live on property, etc. For children of whatever age and for women who do no regular work for wages or profit, enter in brackets the occupations of the head of the family or other person who supports them. If a person has more than one occupation, enter the chief one only, unless one of the other occupations be landholding or cultivation, in which case both should be entered. General terms, such as "Government" or "Railway Service," "Commerce," "Clerk," etc., should not be used, but the exact kind of service or dealing must be specified. Persons temporarily out of employ should be returned under their last or ordinary occupation.

Column 12.—(Education).—Enter as "Learning" all who are under instruction whether at home or at school or at college. Those who are not under instruction, but are able to both read and write should be shown as "Literate;" and those of whatever age who are not under instruction, and who do not know how to read and write, or who can read but not write, or who can only sign their own name, should be entered as "Illiterate."

Column 13.—(Language known).—No entry is to be made in this column except for those shown as "Literate" in column 12, in whose case English should here be specified, or the language, other than Indian vernaculars, which each person can both read and write best.

Column 14.—(Infirmities).—If any person be (a) of unsound mind, (b) deaf-mute from birth, not from accident or disease, (c) totally blind, or (d) afflicted with the true or corrosive leprosy, an entry accordingly should be made in this column against that person's name.

Instructions to Enumerators (Rajputana).

A.—THE FIRST ROUND.

You will visit each house in your block to which has been given a number corresponding with that in the block list, and enter in the blank schedules the name and particulars prescribed below for every person, young and old, males and females, residing in or taking meals from that house. You should use a fresh page for each house, and when there are more than ten persons in a house, continue the entries on the next page, which should be numbered, with the addition of the word "continued" in brackets after the number. Do not begin the entries for a fresh house in the middle of a page. If any ordinary resident in the house be absent for a few days, you should still enter that person as present. If there are any visitors in the house who are only stopping a day or two, as for a marriage, etc., do not enter them, unless they are going to stop till the 26th February. Write very clearly in the character you know best.

Enter first the head of the family in each house, whether male or female, then the rest of the members of the family, then the servants residing on the premises, and lastly visitors who are likely to stop some time in the house.

B.—THE SECOND ROUND.

On the evening of the 26th and the morning of the 27th of February, you will again visit your block, as before, and read over to the head of each family the entries made on your first visit, and ask him if any person has left the house, or any one has come who was not there before, or if any infant has been born. You will then enter those not entered before, and strike out the whole of the entries for those who have died or have left. But if any person has only left the house for a few hours to watch in the fields, etc., and is still taking meals from the house, you will consider him as present, and not strike his name out. After visiting all the houses, go to the dharmshalas, serais, and landing or encamping places, and count all the travellers, pilgrims, etc., you find there. You should enquire from all visitors, travellers, pilgrims, etc., whether they have been already enumerated in their own villages, and if they have been, you should not enter their names, even if they do stop till the 26th February 1891. Before you start on your round, you must see that you are yourself enumerated in the house where you are stopping. When you are sure that every part of your Block has been thoroughly visited, you should go to your supervisor and prepare the abstract on the back of the specimen schedule.

C.—RULES FOR FILLING IN THE SCHEDULE.

COLUMN 1.—(Serial number).—Do not enter this number on your first visit, but fill it in on your second round.

COLUMN 2.—(Name).—If a child has not been named, enter the word "child." Enter all persons by name, giving father's name, but if there is any objection to giving the name of any female, enter the word "female" in this column.

COLUMN 3.—(Sex).—Enter whether each person is male or female, even though you have already written "female" in column 2.

COLUMN 4.—(Age).—Enter the number of years each person has completed, and in the case of infants of less than one year old, write the word "infant" in this column. If the age cannot be stated exactly, guess what it is from the appearance of the person, or by inquiries from relatives. You must not, however, ask to see any female who is not voluntarily presented before you.

COLUMN 5.—(Religion).—Enter whether Hindu, Musalman, Jain, Christian, Parsi, etc.

COLUMN 6.—(Sect of religion).—This column is to be filled up only in the case of Musalmans, stating whether they are Shiah or Sunnis.

COLUMN 10.—(Occupation, etc.)—Enter the occupation of all who do work as agriculture, State military service, State writers, private service, trade (as shop-keeper, money-lender, etc.), priests, artisans (as carpenter, goldsmith, weaver, potter, etc.), labourer, cultivator, and mendicancy and in the case of young children and women who do no work for wages, etc., enter the occupation of the person who supports them—prefixing the word “dependent on”—such as dependent on cultivator, dependent on money-lender, etc. You are not to leave this column blank even for infants, as these are supported by their parents, whose occupation is to be entered against the name of the infant as above prescribed.

COLUMN II.—If any person be blind of both eyes, or insane, or suffering from corrosive leprosy, enter the name of the infirmity in this column. Eunuchs should be entered in the column for male sex, but the special condition should be shown here.

NOTE.—Do not write the word "ditto" in any column, and make a full entry as above prescribed in every column for every person, whether infant or grown up.

Appendix J.

[REFERRED TO IN PARA. 153, CHAPTER XII].

Instructions issued by the Census Commissioner for the Enumeration of Railway Premises and Travellers by Rail.

1. The classes of the population to be enumerated by the railway authorities are—
 - A.—Persons residing or working within railway premises.
 - B.—Persons travelling by rail on the night of the 26th February 1891.
2. Under A are included permanent employés of the railway with their families and servants residing on the railway premises, together with visitors stopping temporarily in their houses, also labourers or others employed on railway work by contractors or railway officers, if sleeping within the railway premises. This proviso, however, is not to be applicable to gangs of railway coolies who may have pitched their huts, etc., just beyond railway limits, as these should be enumerated by the agency which collected or is employing them. On the other hand, when convenient, detached houses, etc., of signallers or gatemen may be included in the block of the nearest village or town, and thus be enumerated with the ordinary population of that block. In all such cases the railway and the district authorities should act in concert with each other, so that there may be neither omission nor re-enumeration of any person. It should be noted that persons who work on railway premises either by day or night, but habitually return to their homes outside railway premises when off work, are not to be enumerated in class A.
3. The first step to be taken is to parcel out the railway premises into charges for superintendents, circles for supervisors and blocks for enumerators. The tabulation of the returns will be by villages or towns for each district or State separately; as the case may be, so the mileage included in every district through which the line passes, with the stations, etc., therein, may be constituted a charge and registered in a list to be sent to the Superintendent of the Census Operations for the province or agency. It is obvious, therefore, that the partition into the above census areas should be territorial and not departmental, and that in each charge a single officer of the railway should be made responsible for all the census arrangements therein. So, too, not more than one station should be included in one block, as the returns may have to be afterwards distributed between two districts or even two provinces. As a rule, a station will be a convenient block, but when the premises contain many inhabitants, it may be advisable to form it into a circle containing not more than ten blocks of from 200 to 300 persons or 40 to 60 houses apiece. Where there are a good many houses belonging to the railway, but detached and at a distance from the station, it will be necessary to provide special supervisors and enumerators, working, if necessary, in concert with the supervisors of the municipal or village census.
4. A list for each station or railway settlement should be prepared, showing the number and description of buildings included in each block; and where there are many such buildings, it will be safer to number them with paint or some other material for the guidance of the enumerator.
5. Superintendents, supervisors and enumerators should be appointed in writing by the chief railway authorities, and, as far as possible, should be their employés, either European or knowing English well, especially in circles where there is a considerable European or Eurasian colony. At small stations it will be convenient to have the same person to enumerate both residents and travellers, so as to save training two different men (see below, para. 14).
6. The enumeration will be effected through schedules, of which two kinds will be issued—(a) householders' schedules, to be filled in by the head of each family, and returned to the enumerator on the morning of the 27th February; and (b) enumeration-books, in which the enumerator fills in the entries for each person at the dictation of the head of the family. The use of the former is restricted to Europeans, Eurasians and English-speaking employés of the superior grades; and the supervisor of the circle should be distinctly made responsible for seeing that such forms are correctly filled up. Both kinds of form contain room for eight persons per page, or schedule, and in the case of Europeans and Eurasians the return for native servants and their families on the premises is to be made by the enumerator of the block on a separate schedule. One page is reserved for each house, so that in forwarding indents as below prescribed, allowance to the extent of perhaps 10 per cent. should be made for emergencies. The indents should be sent by the Agent or Manager to the Superintendent of Census Operations for the province, or in Feudatory territory to the chief Political authority, unless it be otherwise arranged with the railway management. They should specify—

- (a) the number of families—European, Eurasian and Native—for whom householders-forms are required;
- (b) the number of houses, servants' quarters, police, porters, and coolie lines, to be enumerated in the book-forms;
- (c) the number of blocks in each circle, and the number of enumerators to be employed;
- (d) the number of schedules to be bound up into each book, varying from 12 to 50;
- (e) the language in which the said books should be supplied.

Each book contains detailed instructions, a sample schedule, an abstract to be filled up by the enumerator after the census, and a list of the houses he has to enumerate, under their serial numbers as mentioned in paragraph 4 above. The full supply of schedules and books for this class of the population, together with a supply of enumeration passes for passengers, should be indented for in September at the latest, and should be prepared for household distribution and use by enumerators respectively by the middle of January 1891. In writing up the block-list of houses in the book, special note should be made in the last column of the houses where schedules have been left, so that the enumerator may know how many forms, and from whom, he has to collect on the morning after the census.

7. Early in February every enumerator should fill in the schedule for each house in the manner prescribed in the instructions printed in his book. This task should be completed by the 20th February, and during its progress the supervisor should test the greater part of the entries by house-to-house visits. This preliminary record may be foregone, as in 1881, in the case of native employes of superior grade in order to diminish the work thrown on the staff engaged as enumerators but the concession is made on the distinct understanding that it does not interfere with the accuracy of the census for which the railway authorities are responsible.

8. The householders' schedules should be left with the head of each family about the 24th of February. On the morning of the 27th idem, they will be collected, examined on the spot by the enumerator, and corrected, where necessary, on his suggestion.

9. On the night of the 26th of February, beginning from about 8 or 9 o'clock, the enumerator will again visit every house in his block, and see that the entries are brought up to date in accordance with his instructions regarding visitors, births, and deaths not previously recorded. It may be noted that, according to those instructions, employes who are on duty on the night of the 26th February, but are not travelling with any train, should be recorded as present in the houses where they are entered in the book, or where a householders' schedule has been left.

10. On issuing the books and householders' schedules, the supervisor should keep a register, of every form thus made over to the enumerator, and on the 27th of February he should recover the same from the latter and see that each one issued is duly accounted for. He should then compile the totals from the enumerator's abstract into a return for the district or State, certify the list, pack the books and schedules in serial order with it, and despatch the whole without delay to the Superintendent of the charge in which he is employed, (if any) who will at once send the parcels for his charge on to the Collector or Deputy Commissioner of the district or to the abstracting centre designated by the Provincial Census Superintendent, if in British territory, or to such office as may have been previously arranged, if in a Feudatory State, certifying at the same time to the Agent or Manager of the line that he has done so.

11. On all main points, and in all matters affecting general arrangements connected with the census, the Agent or Manager should consult with the Superintendent of Census for the province or agency concerned, and in Rajputana, Central India, Quetta, Hyderabad, and Mysore, with the First Assistant to the Agent to the Governor-General and the Resident, respectively.* All points which cannot be settled by these officials should be referred to the Census Commissioner for India. On minor local details the Agent or Manager should consult the Collector, Deputy Commissioner, or Political Officer concerned. In order that the arrangements may be carried out successfully, it is important that a list of the railway charges, circles and blocks in each district or State should be sent as soon as they are settled, or before the end of November 1890, to the Provincial Census Superintendent, and also that the instructions above given regarding local and not departmental responsibility should be strictly followed.

CLASS B.—Travellers by Rail.

12. A special official should be told off at each station to enumerate all persons alighting from a train or, in the case mentioned below, taking tickets at that station during the night of the 26th of February 1891.

13. In the case of 1st and 2nd class passengers and of Europeans and Eurasians travelling intermediate on 3rd class, or on duty with the train, separate schedules should be distributed by the guard in charge of the train on the evening of the 26th February. The rest of the persons in the train will be enumerated in the schedule-books described above. Persons who arrive at a station some time before their train is due should be enumerated by the station enumerator before they enter the train, and each should be duly provided with an enumeration pass. Indents for these forms should be sent in with those for the resident population under class A, but under a separate heading. The requirements of each station in this respect should be based on the average number of passengers alighting there on the above date for the last three years, with special extra provision for the station where the final enumeration under paragraph 15 is to take place.

14. Between 8 P.M. on the 26th February and 6 A.M. on the 27th idem, the station enumerator should enumerate every traveller—man, woman and child—who alights at the station in question. He should first ask if the person has been enumerated already, and, if the latter produces an enumeration pass or asserts that he has been so counted, the enumerator should accept the answer, and let him go by. If he says he has not, the enumerator should fill up the schedule entries for him in full and give him an enumeration pass, telling him to show the same if any enumerator offers to count him again. Travelling enumerators, too, may be nominated to enumerate some of the passengers in each carriage at every halt until all are returned, when the next carriage will be taken up. This will materially lighten the task mentioned in the next paragraph.

15. All passengers found in the train at 6 A.M. on the 27th February, who cannot produce enumeration passes, or who otherwise do not appear to have been enumerated anywhere else, and all employés on duty with the train, shall be counted at the first large station at which the train stops at or about that hour. A place should be chosen where the train is timed to stop for a sufficient period, which may, if necessary, be slightly prolonged.* Enumeration passes need not be given on this occasion. The household schedules given the evening before to 1st and 2nd class passengers, etc., who have not alighted during the night, should be collected and examined by an employé, who should, if possible, be a European or Eurasian. The same official should also fill up the form for those who have omitted to do so for themselves. He should finally see that schedules thus collected are securely gummed or stitched into the enumeration-books used for the other passengers.

16. Troops travelling by rail on the night in question will be enumerated by their officers, and the return separately sent in. But the native servants travelling with them, and those travelling with 1st and 2nd class passengers (not being in the same carriage with their employers), should be enumerated with the rest of the persons in the train.

17. The above books and schedules should be separately indexed, and then put up with the returns for class A for transmission to the authorities specified in paragraph 10 above. The enumerator's abstract should be filled in for each book, etc., and compiled as prescribed in the same paragraph.

18. Expenses.—The schedules, passes and books will be supplied by Government. The agency employed will be chiefly officially attached to the railway. Unavoidable extra expenditure, such as payment for overtime on the night of the 26th, remuneration of outsiders where no officials are available as enumerators, charges for oil, and petty stationery, may be entered in a bill under the above heads, and sent through the Provincial Census Superintendent to the Census Commissioner for submission to the Government of India for sanction.

19. In pursuance of the above instructions, the Provincial Census Superintendent of the Punjab should make arrangements as regards the census of the North-Western Railway, communicating his proposals to the Superintendents of the Bombay and North-

* Where the local staff is insufficient for the speedy enumeration of passengers at this halt, a few clerks should be sent temporarily from another station. A plan of enumeration found efficient in 1881 was for two enumerators to enter a carriage as the train drew up, accompanied, if at night, by porters with lamps. Starting from opposite ends of the carriage, each enumerated all the persons on one side of the carriage. They then moved on to the next carriage, which had been locked, till their arrival, and repeated the process, the carriage they had left being then unlocked, and the passengers allowed to alight.

Western Provinces as far as the portion of the line lying within their charges is concerned. He should also arrange about the new Delhi-Kalka line. The Superintendent of the Bengal operations should consult with the East Indian and Bengal State Railway authorities without delay and communicate his proposals about the former to the North-West and Central Provinces. The Indian Midland and the Bengal-Nagpur can best be dealt with by the North-West and the Central Province Superintendents respectively. Bombay will no doubt be able to arrange for the whole length of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, in consultation with Berar, Hyderabad and the Central Provinces, with Madras and Mysore as regards the South Maratha system, and with the Kathiawar authorities for the lines in that agency. Separate proposals have been made in the Census Commissioner's letter No. 163 in connection with Central Indian lines, and the other railways seem to present no special difficulty.

Appendix K.

CIRCULAR No. $\frac{K}{1890}$.

SIMLA,

Schedules, etc., for Railways.

1. In the general instructions for the census of railway premises it is provided that the schedules relating to the portion of the line falling within each district or agency shall, as a rule, be dealt with separately.

2. Provincial Superintendents of Census, therefore, on receipt of the statement of the mileage thus subdivided, should inform the railway authorities of the vernacular languages in which the forms for the rest of the District or State concerned have been supplied, and should ascertain whether those languages or any other will be most convenient for use on the railway. According to the decision arrived at, the railway authorities should frame their indents and forward them to the Census Superintendent concerned.

3. In order to avoid misapprehension or confusion regarding the two classes of schedules, the Provincial Superintendent should supply the railway authorities with specimens of both enumeration-book and householders' schedule. He should also arrange whether the forms are to be consigned by the press to head-quarters or to the stations where they are to be used.

4. On the above general lines, the indents for the East Indian Railway may require forms in Bengali and Hindi (Nagri, Persian and Káyati), besides English. The North-Western line, in Hindi or Punjabi, either Nagri or Persian, and Sindhi. On the Oudh and Rohilkund and Indian Midland, Hindi, Nagri or Persian. The Bengal-Nagpur will require mostly Hindi, Nagri with some Bengali and perhaps a little Uriya. Most of the Great Indian Peninsula line takes Marathi, with short lengths requiring Hindi, Nagri and Kanarese, respectively, on the north-east and south-east extensions. The Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway uses Marathi for only a hundred miles or so out of Bombay, and for the rest of the line Gujarati will serve, up to the Palanpur frontier of the Rajputana-Malwa Railway. The Southern Maratha system uses Marathi and Kanarese, with a little Telegu between Balari and the Krishna terminus. On the Rajputana-Malwa some complications may occur. Northwards from Amhedabad the line runs through a Gujarati-speaking tract, up to Palanpur as above observed. Then comes a tract of Hindi-Nagri up to the confines of the Punjab and North-West Provinces, where the Persian character may be found more useful, and the Central Provinces, where Marathi is spoken. The Superintendents of Census for those provinces and the Agents to the Governor-General for Rajputana and Central India should consult with one another and the railway authorities as to the portion of the line to be supplied with schedules through each officer. It has already been proposed that the work of abstraction for the portion of that line lying within Rajputana and Central India should be executed at Ajmere, though the schedule to be used is the British Indian, not the smaller form.

5. Provincial Superintendents should lose no time in arranging with the railway authorities the details of the form supply, and the way the consignments are to be distributed from the press. As regards territorial divisions, the partition between British districts and Feudatory territory should be noted in a short mileage statement, and the local railway officials instructed accordingly about the delivery of the forms, after the census, to the District or Political authorities concerned. It is essential to have the indents complied with before October, even though they are not issued, as the presses will be hard pressed for time if there is any sudden increase in the demands upon them just before the end of the year.

CIRCULAR NO. 8.

CENSUS OF 1891.

Instructions for the Enumeration of people travelling by Rail on the 26th February 1891.

District Traffic Superintendents will arrange for the enumeration of people travelling by rail on the night of the 26th as follows:—

(a) A special person should be told off at each station to enumerate all persons alighting from a train or, as in the case mentioned below, taking tickets at that station during the night of the 26th February 1891. This person will be called the "Station Enumerator."

(b) In the case of 1st and 2nd class passengers and of Europeans and Eurasians travelling intermediate or third class or on duty with the train, separate household schedules should be distributed to them by the guard in charge of the train on the evening of the 26th February. The rest of the persons in the train should be enumerated in the block schedule books. Persons who arrive at a station some time before their train is due, unless they produce an enumeration ticket, or otherwise show that they have been enumerated elsewhere, should be enumerated by the station enumerator before they enter the train, and each person so enumerated should be provided with an enumeration pass, Form C., with a supply of which each station will be provided.

(c) Between 8 P. M. on the 26th February and 6 A. M. on the 27th idem (or later if the train passes a station immediately after 6 A. M. but is not enumerated there, as in the case of 60 Down at Sirsa), the station enumerator should enumerate every traveller—man, woman and child—who alights at the station in question. He should first ask if the person has been enumerated already, and if he produces an enumeration pass or asserts that he has already been counted, the enumerator should accept the answer, and let him go by. If he says he has not, the enumerator should fill up the schedule entries for him in full and give him an enumeration pass, telling him to show the same if any enumerator offers to count him again. In the case of European and Eurasian passengers, they should be asked for the schedules given them, and if they are unable to give them up or to produce an enumeration pass, they should be enumerated before being passed out of the station. To lighten the task mentioned in the next paragraph, travelling enumerators should be nominated to enumerate some of the passengers in each carriage at every halt the train makes on the night of the 26th February until all are returned, when the next carriage should be taken up.

(d) All passengers found on the train at 6 A.M. on the 27th February, who cannot produce enumeration passes, and all employés on duty with and travelling in the train should be counted at the stations named below. Enumeration passes need not be given on this occasion. The household schedules given the evening before, vide clause (b), to 1st and 2nd class passengers, etc., who have not alighted during the night, should be collected and examined by the guard of the train, who should fill up the form for those who have omitted to do so for themselves. He should finally see that schedules thus collected are securely gummed or stitched into the enumeration-books used for the other passengers.

(e) Troops travelling by rail on the night in question will be enumerated by their officers, and the return separately sent in. But the native servants travelling with them, and those travelling with 1st and 2nd class passengers (not being in the same carriage with their employers), should be enumerated with the rest of the persons in the train.

(f) At the stations where trains have to be completely enumerated, the guard, head guard and station staff should act as enumerators, care being taken that the guards working the trains mentioned and the staff generally thoroughly understand what they have to do. If the staff thus available is insufficient, the District Traffic Superintendent must arrange for additional men to help in the enumeration.

(g) At the station previous to that where the enumeration has to take place the doors of all carriages should be locked on both sides. First, 2nd and Intermediate class passengers should be enumerated in the order named, and then 3rd class passengers, the enumerators commencing from adjacent carriages and working towards the ends of the train, unlocking each carriage as they have enumerated the passengers in it.

(h) For the enumeration of passengers separate Book-schedules should be used, and the entries should not be made in the schedule in which the people living at the station have been enumerated.

(i) The books and schedules should, after the enumeration is completed, be handed over to the Station Master, whose receipt should be taken for the number thus made over. The Station Master should abstract and summarise them, each book separately, and make them over to the Circle Supervisor, who will make them over to the District Traffic Superintendent, after summarising the figures, in the Return Form A, for his Circle, the District Traffic Superintendent will then compile the return in Form B, for each District or State and send them to the Executive Engineer who will dispose of them as directed in Circular 9, para. 13, clause (iii).

CIRCULAR No. 9.

CENSUS OF 1891.

Instructions for the enumeration of people living on Railway premises.

A general census of the population, in both British and Native territory, will be taken on the night of the 26th February 1891. The company will take it within railway limits, which are to be held to include all the land in its occupation with the buildings on it, and also persons collected in large bodies near the railway for purposes connected with the line.

2. The persons to be enumerated are those present on railway premises on the night of February 26th, and will comprise—

- (1) resident employés and their families, their servants and their families ;
- (2) labourers and others employed on railway work by contractors and sleeping on railway premises or encamped close by. The Civil District Authorities should, however, always be informed when it is proposed to enumerate any part of the population outside railway premises.
- (3) employés and passengers travelling by rail.

3. The line will be divided into Charges, Circles and Blocks as follows. Charge Superintendents should see that Circle Supervisors and Enumerators, and Circle Superintendents should see that Enumerators understand their work thoroughly before the date of the census.

Ajmere.—Ajmere will be divided into three charges, each of which will be under a separate Superintendent as follows :—

- (1) Under the Station Master, Ajmere, which will include all buildings in railway limits between the distant signals, all buildings on the bund opposite the railway station as far as and including Mr. Pierce's house, now occupied by Mr. Wilkinson, and all buildings on the site known as "Leslie Terrace."
- (2) Under Mr. Tebbs, Executive Engineer, Ajmere, all buildings on railway land north of the Ajmere station premises.
- (3) Under Mr. Goodwin, Deputy Locomotive Superintendent, all buildings on railway land south of the Ajmere station premises.

Each Charge Superintendent will appoint his own Supervisors and Enumerators.

District Head Quarters.—A Committee of the District Officers of the Engineering, Locomotive and Traffic Departments should be formed with the senior officer as President, to divide the railway premises into Circles and Blocks, and to appoint a Superintendent or Superintendents for the place.

Engine stations, which are not Head-quarter stations will be under the District Locomotive Superintendent as Superintendent of the charge and should be divided into two circles ; one, which will include all buildings within the station limits proper, that is, between the distant signals, under the supervision of the Station Master ; and the other, which include all buildings on railway land outside the station premises, under the supervision of the Foreman. These circles should again be distributed into blocks under separate enumerators. Both the Foreman and the Station Master should act in concert, and help each other in the enumeration of the population at the station, care being taken that the same people are not enumerated twice over.

All other stations will be under the District Traffic Superintendent, who will be Superintendent of the charge, and should be divided by him into circles with the Traffic Inspector of the section as Supervisor of the circle. Each station in the charge should be treated as a separate block, and should have for its enumerator the Station Master, who will enumerate all persons residing on railway land within the limits of his station, that is within the distant signals.

Railway land outside station limits.—All houses on land outside station limits, that is, between stations should be divided into charges with the Executive Engineer of the District as Superintendent of the charge, the Sub-divisional Officers as Supervisors of their respective sub-divisions, and the Permanent Way Inspectors, Sub-Inspectors and Time-keepers as Enumerators.

4. To facilitate the operations, the whole of the railway limits, including stations, huts and houses along the line, residential quarters and houses, and the places where labourers employed by contractors are encamped, whether in tents or huts, should be divided by the Charge Superintendents named in paragraph 3 into Census Circles and Blocks under Supervisors and Enumerators, respectively. In doing this care should be taken that the circles and blocks are not greater than can be efficiently supervised or enumerated by one man.

5. The Block is the smallest sub-division, and is the unit for enumeration, and the Enumerator is responsible for the enumeration of every person within it. The Supervisor again is responsible for the enumeration of all persons within his Circle.

6. After the Supervisors and Enumerators have been appointed, they should be furnished with a copy of the rules applying to them and with the necessary number of forms, and in order to prevent any omission a list of houses for each Block should be prepared by the Enumerator as soon as he is appointed, in the form supplied for the purpose.

7. Europeans and Eurasians, and well educated English-speaking natives at the larger stations, should be supplied by the Enumerator of the Block with household schedules in English, which they should be instructed to fill in for themselves, their families and servants living in the same house with them (but not for servants living in outhouses) on the census night (February 26th), and return to the Enumerator on the morning of the 27th. In the 4th column of the Block list, a note should be made by the Enumerator of the number delivered to houses to which schedules have to be delivered.

8. For all other persons, including the servants of householders supplied with loose schedules (unless they actually live under the same roof as their master), the enumeration should be made by the Enumerator orally, and entered in the Enumerator's book.

9. Early in February, every Enumerator should fill in the schedule for each house in the manner prescribed in the instructions printed in his book. This task should be completed by the 20th February, and during its progress the Supervisor should test the greater part of the entries by house-to-house visits.

10. The householders' schedules should be left with the head of each family about the 24th of February. On the morning of the 27th idem, they should be examined on the spot by the Enumerator, corrected, where necessary, on his suggestion, and collected.

11. On the night of the 26th February, beginning from about 8 or 9 o'clock, the Enumerator should again visit every house in his block, and see that the entries are brought up to date in accordance with his instructions regarding visitors, births, and deaths not previously recorded. Employés who are on duty on the night of the 26th February, but are not travelling with any train, should be recorded as present in the houses where they are entered in the book, or where a householder's schedule has been left, that is, at their usual residences.

12. In issuing the enumerators' books and householders' schedules, the following instructions should be observed to prevent any books or forms going astray.

- (a) The Charge Superintendent should open a register in which he should record the total number of enumerators' books and householders' schedules received by him; and the total number issued by him from time to time to the Circle Supervisors, whose signatures should be obtained for all books and forms delivered to them.
- (b) The Circle Supervisors should keep a similar register, and should record all books and forms issued to the Enumerators.
- (c) The Circle Supervisors and Enumerators should be made to render an account of each book and form delivered to them, and should be made to return all unused books, and any that may have been damaged or cancelled. Cancelled books should be cancelled across each entry in red ink.
- (d) In issuing the books and schedules the Circle Supervisor should mark each book and schedule with the number of the block for use in which it has been issued, and the serial number of the book or form issued. Thus, supposing 3 enumerators' books and 3 householders' schedules are issued to Indore which is in Circle B, and the serial number of whose "block" is 10, the books and schedules should be marked B 10 A, B 10 B, B 10 C, and so on. The Supervisor should further fill in the particulars at the back of the books and schedules according to the following examples:—

At other stations the blocks in each circle should be numbered consecutively from 1 or A upwards.

- (2) The column "Book No." in the enumerators' books should not be filled in by the Enumerator or the Circle Supervisor, but should be filled in by the Charge Superintendent before he sends in the books to the Provincial Superintendent, or Civil Officer of the District or State to whom the books have to be sent, vide para. 14, all books in the same District or State being consecutively numbered from 1 upwards.

13. On the morning of the 27th February after the enumeration has been completed, each enumerator should fill in the abstract at the end of each book, and deliver up all books and household schedules to the Circle Supervisor, who should see that every book and form given by him to a station or person is returned to him. In the case of out-stations, the Circle Supervisor should travel over his circle on the 27th, and collect all the books and schedules he previously issued from each station.

- (ii) On receipt of all the books and forms, Circle Supervisors should compile the totals from the Enumerators' abstracts into a return for each District or State in Form A, certify the list and pack the books and schedules, arranged in the order in which they are numbered, and send them without delay, together with the unused or cancelled books and forms, to their Charge Superintendent. The Charge Superintendent should see that all the books and schedules have been received back, summarise the totals for each District or State in his charge in Form B, and send them to the Railway Executive Engineer of the district.

- (iii) The Executive Engineer will again summarise the totals of the different Charge Superintendents in one return, Form B, for each District or State, number all the books received in serial order, according to the District or State to which they belong, arrange them in this order, and send them to the Provincial Superintendents or to the Civil Officers of the district or State, as shown in the last column of table in paragraph 14 under To Pay way-bills, at the same time advising the Agent direct that he has done so.

14. The following list shows in which province, district and State each station lies, and the officials to whom the books should be sent after the completion of the enumeration. The Engineer-in-Chief will advise those responsible for the enumeration of people outside station limits in whose territory the land lies.

IMPERIAL TABLE II.

Variation in the enumerated population since last census.

This Table gives details of enumerated population only—

ENUMERATED POPULATION OF 1881	{	Males	5,385,175
		Females	4,573,837
		TOTAL	9,959,012
ENUMERATED POPULATION OF 1891	{	Males	6,340,443
		Females	5,650,061
		TOTAL	11,990,504
VARIATION	{	Males	+955,268
		Females	+1,076,224
		TOTAL	+2,031,492

The population of the detached portions of Gwalior and Indore situated in Meywar has not been included in the 1881 figures, as no statistics for that year were forthcoming.

The 1891 as well as the 1881 figures exclude population of detached tracts of Tonk in Central India.

The Banswara and Kushalgarh figures for 1881 show the total population for that year enumerated and unenumerated as 128,813. As the whole population of Banswara has been enumerated in 1891, it is necessary for purposes of comparison to take 128,813 as all also enumerated in 1881, therefore the difference between 128,813 and 104,000 (figures given in the Census Report for 1881) has to be added to the Rajputana enumerated totals for 1881.

The undernoted Bhils have been entered in this Table under Animistic. In Table VI they have been shown as Hindus :—

Divisions.	Bhil Population.
Eastern Division	45,628
Western „	70,900
Southern „	14,158
Cantonments	552
TOTAL	131,238

It was not found possible for the Banswara and Partabgarh Durbars to return the population of those States by caste.

Oswals and Saraogis are traders and will be found classed as such in the review on the general report of the Census operations. But 54,121 Saraogis and 146,620 Oswals, who mostly serve as clerks and in other official capacities, call themselves no longer traders, they have been, therefore, at the suggestion of the Durbar authorities, transferred to class B, group 5 as “writers.” This, however, is their occupation, their caste remains the same as those of their fellow Oswals and Saraogis returned under class C.

In the statistical review “traders” and “writers” have been grouped together.
